HUNDREDS HOMELESS AFTER ERUPTION OF GUATEMALA VOLCANO

Between 50 And 100 Dead; Relief Is Organized

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Nov. 5.—Every available relief agency today was working under the personal direction of President Chacon to alleviate the suffering of the hundreds made homeless by the eruption of the volcano Santa Maria.

PRISONER WOUNDED DURING JAIL BREAK DIES; OTHERS FREE

Brooker Succumbs To Hurts; Guard Recovering

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—A convict is dead here today and two others are still at large, as the result of the partly successful early morning jail delivery at the Ohio State Penitentiary here yesterday.

Arthur Brooker, 23, of Findlay, who was sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary for beating Samuel McMichael, Findlay storekeeper to death with milk bottles, is the dead prisoner.

His death resulted from gun shot wounds he received when he and two other convicts drilled, slugged and shot their way from the state prison.

Brooker succeeded in getting over the thirty foot wall, but he was found mortally wounded on a railroad right-of-way within 100 yards of the penitentiary, hours after his reported escape.

Police rushed to the Ohio State University campus when it was reported that the convicts were seen there yesterday afternoon, the "tip" proved unfounded, however.

JUNIOR LEAGUE TO PLAN EXPANSION

DAYTON, O., Nov. 5.—Expansion of the League in America and abroad, is the keynote of the conference of delegates from the Eastern region of the Junior League of America, which held its opening session of the three-day convocation today.

HIT-SKIP AUTOIST SOUGHT IN DEATH

URBANA, O., Nov. 5.—Police today are pushing a search for the hit-and-run motorist who last night ran down and fatally injured James Martin, 64, an employee of the state highway office here. Martin was a native of Gallipolis.

The accident occurred on state highway Number 55, about a mile from here. Martin was unable to give a description of the death car before he succumbed to a compound fracture of the skull.

sons lost their lives when trapped in the path of the volcano's lava flow.

An airplane observer who flew as low over the crater as he dared, reported that the volcano's activity was continuing and that the course of the main flow of lava was toward the sea.

LAST PICTURE

LONDON, Nov. 5.—"The Taming of the Shrew" is the first and last motion picture in which the names of Fairbanks and Pickford will appear together.

"Doug" and Mary, in a joint interview given here, declared they will never again act together in a movie—talkie or silent.

ELECTION DAY ENDS TRADING; MARKET WELCOMES HOLIDAY

Monday Decline Halted; Briefer Hours Arranged

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Today, being election day, was another of those stock exchange "holidays" during which traders sat home and told each other how much they would have made "if" and brokers employees put in their usual day's work trying to catch up on their accounts.

The market did the unexpected yesterday and thereby blunted many bullish horns when prices dropped anywhere from two to seventeen points.

But out of a gloom of the decline which was generally attributed to unloading of "support stock" which had been bought in past week's falling markets, there penetrated one ray of sunshine—to employees in the financial district, at any rate.

Only 6,202,330 shares, changed hands during the five-hour session which was orderly throughout and had all the earmarks of those seemingly far-away days which preceded last week's hectic sessions.

To further ease the strain on brokerage and exchange facilities, the hours of trading tomorrow, Thursday and Friday will be from 10 a. m. to one p. m. instead of one to 3 p. m.

Welcome relief for over-worked stock brokers and their armies of efficient helpers is afforded by the closing, not only of the stock markets, but the banks, clearing houses, commodity exchanges and most of the wholesale and retail mercantile houses. Wall street clerks and cashiers will be bending over their books all day, in another desperate effort to clear the decks for tomorrow.

By action of the governors of the stock exchange, the trading hours of the big board were reduced this week to a total of fourteen, embracing a full day on Monday, the election holiday on Tuesday, three hours each on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and a shutdown Saturday.

Yesterday after a three-day shutdown, chaotic conditions prevailed in many of the big trading offices. It was still impossible for thousands of small traders to edge their way near enough to the brokers' window either to place an order or to receive information as to "how they stood" on the books. Lack of information of this kind is a considerable handicap to these speculators and it is to the interest of brokers and traders alike to compare records as promptly as possible in order to avoid confusion in the future.

TAX WILL NET $30,000,000

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—New York State's levy of two cents a gallon on gasoline averaged about $5,000,000 a month during the summer. The state expects to collect about $30,000,000 from the two-cent levy for the year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—In the quietest off-year election in years, Virginia held the spotlight of national political interest today.

SELECT CANTON MAN SENATE COALITION TO SUCCEED BURTON PLANS AMENDMENTS AS U. S. SENATOR TO TARIFF MEASURE

Former Congressman Is Will Ask "Old Guard" To Accept Changes In Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Peace negotiations in the senate battle over the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill assumed tangible shape today when the Democratic-Progressive Republican coalition started preparation of a long list of amendments which the "old guard" Republicans will be asked to accept without debate.

The coalition program is to be laid before Senator Reed Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, who has indicated a willingness to accept many coalition proposals as the only means of breaking the tariff deadlock and enacting a bill in the near future.

With all factions agreeing a bill can not be completed for months unless the usual long senate debates on hundreds of minor tariff schedules is curtailed, there appeared strong likelihood that within the next few days the tariff fight would be limited to a comparatively few major questions.

The power of Senators Borah (R) of Idaho and LaFollette (R) of Wisconsin is expected to be felt in the attempted settlement. They have been tacitly selected as spokesmen for the Progressive-Republican group which is committed to sharp boosts in agricultural tariffs with few increases for industry.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, Democratic finance chieftain, conferred with Senator Smoot today in an effort to bring their tariff program more in harmony.

Senator Harrison (D) of Mississippi also assumed a leading role in the compromise movement.

The coalition again demonstrated its power when an amendment of Senator LaFollette (R) of Wisconsin was adopted, reducing the tariff on synthetic camphor from the 1922 rate of 6 cents a pound to one cent. The senate also slashed the Fordney-McCumber rate, to 30 cents.

The determination of some members of the coalition to make drastic reductions in the level of the Fordney-McCumber rates appeared to be a stumbling block to compromise with the "old guard."

Although some regulars are willing to write a tariff bill upon President Hoover's program of relief of agriculture and a comparatively few "stick industries," they do not want to disturb the bulk of the Fordney-McCumber rates.

The senate took up consideration of the duty on china clay again today. Many southern senators are supporting a tariff boost, on the ground that they cannot now compete with English clay in the new England markets. Senator George (D) of Georgia, who is leading the fight, declared that many states, including Georgia, the Carolinas, Tennessee and Ohio would profit by additional protection.

CONFESSES FIRING HOME; WOMAN FACES ARSON ACCUSATION

Fired House Because Of "Conditions At Home" She Says

BUENOS AIRES, O., Nov. 5.—Charged with setting fire to her own home, Mrs. Josepha Sabage, 48, is at liberty under $500 bond today and police say they have a written confession which is signed by the woman saying she had committed the alleged arson because "of conditions at the house." The woman's husband posted the bail.

He awoke on the morning of October 18 to find his house in flames in four places and an out building ablaze. The Sabage barn had been burned down just a year ago that date during a series of barn fires in Crawford County which caused an aggregated loss of about $100,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—In the quietest off-year election in years, Virginia held the spotlight of national political interest today.

Voters in the old dominion are going to the polls in enormous numbers to elect a governor and a full state ticket, ending a campaign such as has not been witnessed south of the Potomac in more than half a century.

The result is expected to furnish an illuminating insight into the state of political feeling generally throughout the South—and particularly into the absorbing question of whether the anti-Smith revolt last year has been quenched, or whether it still burns brightly enough to menace democracy's hold on the South.

Virginia supplies the first test since the memorable convulsion of 1928. State issues have been largely relegated to the background in Virginia's gubernatorial campaign, and the Smiths and anti-Smiths have gone to the mat with a fervor and feeling that has challenged the attention of both national parties.

On one side there is the regular Democratic organization backing the candidacy of Dr. John Garland Pollard. On the other, there is a strong coalition, made up of the normal Republicans and the bitter-aided, supported and encouraged by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., that redoubtable cleric who is credited with no little part in the turning of four states of the so-called solid South into the Hoover column last year. The coalition candidate is Professor William Mosely Brown.

The coalitionists, taking their cue from Bishop Cannon, have fought to keep alive the anti-Smith sentiment that sent Virginia into the Republican ranks a year ago for the first time since Reconstruction. They have shouted "Smith-Raskobism" from the Potomac on the north to the Great Smokies in the south, and asserted that the regular Democratic organization that supported Smith and now is supporting Dr. Pollard is still dominated by "Smithism" and "Raskobism," and "Tammany."

Prohibition, religion and the racial issue have all entered into the campaign with a virulence comparable to that of a year ago.

The Democrats have charged the coalitionists with injection of the religious issue again, although both Dr. Pollard and Dr. Brown are Protestants. The coalitionists have countered with accusations against the Democrats of raising the racial question. Placards carrying the picture of Oscar DePriest, the Negro congressman from Chicago, and some of his radical utterances on the race question, have been circulated throughout the state. Both sides have thrown mud on the prohibition issue, although both candidates are dry.

Both sides went to the polls today predicting victory.

The regular Democratic leaders anticipate a winning margin of about 50,000 for Dr. Pollard. The coalitionists claim Dr. Brown will win, although by a lesser plurality. About 25,000 is their prediction. That is the same figure by which Hoover carried the state.

Non-partisan observers who have gone into the state, or who have followed the campaign closely, believe that the Democratic regulars will win, although by a lesser margin than predicted by the Democratic leaders. Any Democratic victory, however, will be interpreted as meaning that the party breach caused by the Smith candidacy a year ago has been to a large extent healed, and that will be considered significant throughout the south.

Elsewhere throughout the country today's elections are mostly local in character. Kentucky elects a legislature, Ohio votes on a tax amendment, Illinois and Pennsylvania elect judges, and there are mayoralty contests in New York, Massachusetts, Indiana, Kansas and Ohio.

INDICT UMPIRE FOR ATTACKING FAN

PAULDING, O., Nov. 5.—Clyde Crone, amateur baseball umpire, today stands indicted on assault and battery charges in connection with the death of John Straley, a baseball fan, who died from injuries which he received at the hands of Crone during an argument over a contested decision.

A coroner's report had freed Crone of the charges, but the grand jury acted without considering that.

Crone is alleged to have struck Straley when the latter was heckling his decisions.

ELVEN JURORS TO DECIDE VERDICT

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 5.—Only eleven jurors are sitting in the trial of the Raven Coal Company's suit against the Powhatan Mining Company in the Common Pleas Court here. This is unprecedented locally.

Mrs. Ida Bloom, one of the jurors, received word that her brother had died in Bridgeport and she asked to be excused. By agreement of both counsels, her request was granted, the disposition of the suit therefore being in the hands of eleven men and women.

LACKED PERMIT—FINED

CADIZ, O., Nov. 5.—H. C. Sproul, of Appecanoe City, failed to get a Harrison County probate court permit before starting a dance hall. He was fined $15 and was given a permit by Probate Judge W. W. Harrison.

Youth Agrees To Attend School If Allowed To Live With Prisoners

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 5.—Eleven-year-old Genne Gower didn't like school and he didn't like to live in the county home where he was a ward. That was three months ago.

Genne was a constant worry to the home officials. He repeatedly tried to escape and punishment just made him more desperate. He wouldn't go to school and when he was forced into the class rooms he remained sullen and refused to pay attention.

MISS M'DONNELL WINS

Young Xenia Singer Wins Atwater Kent Audition In Ohio Contest

I can't believe it. I certainly never expected to win the audition. There was so much competition. I really don't know what to say."

Miss Eleanor McDonnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McDonnell, 77 Walnut St., was overjoyed Monday night upon learning that her soprano voice was selected from a field of twenty-seven candidates representing fourteen cities as the winner of the Southern Ohio division of the national Atwater Kent radio contest recently conducted over station WAIT at Columbus.

As the winner in southern Ohio, Miss McDonnell will enter the district contest to be held some time this month at Chicago. The Chicago winner will participate in the national championship contest at New York.

Miss McDonnell began to sing when she was a little girl attending St. Bridget parochial school here. She sang in the choir of the parish church, in school entertainments and finally in public concerts. Although she has sung many times before local audiences, her first individual appearance was made a year ago when she was presented in a recital at Xenia Central High School.

Miss McDonnell took her first vocal lessons from Sister Maria Gratia and has been a pupil of Grant O'Dell, of Dayton and New York, for the last three years. She is a member of the Xenia Woman's Music Club and was selected by that organization to represent Xenia and Greene County in the radio audition a week ago.

The song with which Miss McDonnell won the audition was a selection from Verdi sung in the original Italian, "Pace, Pace, Deo Mio." Her sister, Miss Mary McDonnell, played the piano accompaniment for the test.

Miss McDonnell is a stenographer employed by The Buckeye Press.

Howard Waugh, Zanesville, baritone, was also chosen as a winner of the southern Ohio contest, the winners being announced by Ellis Snyder, Capital University, judge of the contest.

BUCKLEY TO START WEDNESDAY TO BEGIN ATLANTA SENTENCE

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—Bert B. Buckley, 55, former state treasurer, who is under sentence to serve two and a half years in the Atlanta penitentiary as the outgrowth of his conviction on charges of bribery and liquor conspiracy, will probably leave for the southern federal prison tomorrow, it was decided today.

The circuit court of appeals here, which last month refused him a new trial, set aside the stay of execution it had granted Buckley, pending an appeal, and issued a mandate ordering Buckley to surrender to federal authorities tomorrow.

Court officials issued the mandate at Buckley's own request as he is apparently anxious to "get the term over with."

Arrangements for his transportation have been made.

Buckley was convicted on the bribery charges following his connection with the Cincinnati "beer-brewery bribery" scandal.

RADIO BRINGS NEWS OF LOST MINING GROUP

Explorers Are Safe At Cambridge Bay Is Reported

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 5.—With receipt of a radio message from Bathurst stating the lost McAlpine party of eight mine explorers was safe in the Arctic region at Cambridge Bay, efforts to get the party back to civilization started today.

Four airplanes, searching the sub-arctic region since the party was reported missing more than two months ago, may be sent to the trading post to bring back the men.

The message, received at offices of Dominion explorers from a Pontaine radio operator at Bathurst, read:

"Fort St. James station, KJOA, Haven, King William Island, advises me at 10 a. m. mountain time, that McAlpine party arrived safely at Cambridge Bay, across the ice from Dease Point."

News that Col. C. D. H. McAlpine, millionaire Toronto mining man and his party of explorers are safe was radioed from a Hudson Bay steamer at Cambridge Bay and caught by the government radio station at Port Churchill, Manitoba, whence it was relayed to this point.

With food for barely one month, the eight geologists spent since September 8 marooned at some lonely Arctic point.

MAJORITY OF VOTES NEEDED; ELECTION ENDS HOT CAMPAIGN

Taxing Subdivisions Voting For Local Offices Tuesday

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—Ohioans today are deciding the fate of a proposed tax limitation amendment to the constitution of the Buckeye state.

This proposal, if adopted, will abolish the uniform rule of taxation and will authorize the state legislature to determine upon a classification of tangible and intangible property for taxation purposes.

At the polls today, throughout Ohio, municipal, village, township and school district officials are being selected. Various local issues, including proposed tax levies, bond issues, charter amendments and rate ordinances, are being disposed of.

Polls opened at 6:30 a. m. in ninety-two cities, 750 villages, 1,300 townships and 2,000 school districts. Voting will end at 6:30 p. m.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown has arranged for tabulations, at his office tonight, of the returns on votes cast for and against the taxation proposal. A bare majority of the votes cast for or against the amendment, the proposed amendment.

Election officials predict that a relatively high vote will be cast.

Today's election terminates a vigorous campaign waged during the past several weeks by friends and foes of the taxation proposal.

The effect of the adoption of the proposed amendment would be to write into the state constitution the 15-mill tax limitation amendment, now decreed by law, affecting real estate, and to authorize the state legislature to classify all forms of personal property and to fix varying rates of taxation for the different classes of property.

Numerous prominent Ohioans publicly endorsed the proposed amendment while members of thirteen state organizations have actively campaigned for it. Former Governor Vic Donahey, union labor leaders and members of the uniform tax league are among the more prominent opponents of the proposal.

Organizations supporting it include: The All-Ohio Tax League, Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, Ohio Grange, Ohio Tax Association, Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Ohio Hotel Men's Association, Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants, and Ohio real estate boards.

Friends of the proposal argue that it will lower the tax on real estate by reason of the collection of taxes on money, bonds and other intangible property which, heretofore, has escaped taxation.

Opponents contend that if the proposal is adopted, intangibles will continue to escape taxation and that taxes to be paid by the wage-workers on their homes and by other owners of real estate will be boosted as a result of "an unchecked amount" of bond issues and increased taxation.

Today is the fifth time that a proposed classification taxation amendment to the state constitution has been submitted at the Ohio polls. Today, however, is the first time that such a proposal has been the sole statewide issue at an Ohio election.

BROTHERHOOD HEAD CALLED BY DEATH

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—Funeral services for William G. Lee, who for more than 25 years was one of the dominant leaders in the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, will be held here late this afternoon from his home, where he died Saturday after a two-year fight against cancer.

A. F. Whitney, who succeeded as president of the brotherhood, will head the list of honorary pallbearers. Services at the home will be conducted by Knights Templars, Lakewood, while the services at the grave will be in charge of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

ENDORSED CHANGE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—The tax limit amendment, which was up to Ohio voters today, had been endorsed officially by eighteen state-wide business associations. These business organizations urged Ohio voters to support the amendment.

Some of the last groups to approve the proposed amendment were the Ohio Retail Clothiers Association, The Ohio Retail Dry Goods Association, The Ohio Valley Retail Shoe Dealers Association, and the Ohio Hardware Association.

James B. Carson, secretary of the Hardware Association, said the uniform rule of levying taxes is unsatisfactory for the reason that the great bulk of the tax load must be levied on real estate and tangible personal property. "The adoption of the tax limit amendment would effectually decrease the burden on these forms of property," Carson declared.

C. E. Dittmer, executive secretary of the Retail Dry Goods Association, said: "In our opinion the tax limit amendment is the most important state question presented in recent years. Approval is urged by every leading state organization representing Ohio's commercial, financial, industrial and agricultural interests."

PLANE TALK

The Aviation Corporation
(Written expressly for International News Service)

6. Flying Instruments

Aircraft instruments are divided into two classes: engine and navigation. Like stick, rudder and throttle, the training planes are equipped with duplicate sets, one each in the student pilot's and instructor's cockpit, allowing dual control.

Tachometer, thermometer and pressure and fuel gauges are the usual engine instruments. The tachometer registers the speed of the engine in hundreds of revolutions per minute; the thermometer gives the temperature of the lubricating oil and pressure gauge, the oil feed pressure. Fuel gauges visually record the consumption of gasoline.

Most important of the navigation instruments are the compass, the altimeter and the air speed indicator. There are also bank, turn and climb indicators. The plane's altitude is registered by the altimeter in hundreds of feet while the air speed indicator gives in miles per hour its rate of passage through the air.

The turn indicator records the plane's horizontal deviation from straight flight. By the bank indicator, the pilot may determine whether his bank is correct for the radius of turn. Because their function is related, these two instruments are usually combined into one. The climb indicator records the plane's rate of ascent or descent in hundreds of feet per minute.

Tachometer, altimeter, compass and air speed indicator are the instruments most frequently consulted by the pilot. By them he keeps close watch on four important factors of flight: the motor's performance, the altitude, the course and the distance traveled.

The next article of Plane Talk will deal with the weather and its influence on flying.

GENTLEMAN FARMER

That's The Ambition Of Young Radio Tenor From Missouri

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

EW YORK, Nov. 5.—In Fairplay, Mo., the folks tune in on their favorite tenor and say:

"Yea, boy—young Bob Simmons is a right smart singer. But, he'll have to go some yet to get ahead of the parson."

The parson is Bob's papa. And papa warbles a mean number himself. There's a quartet right in the family. Two brothers, the father and Bob.

And Robert Simmons kind of gets homesick to sing tenor in the old quartet quite often, he confesses. A dark-haired, dark-eyed, half-shy youngster, he has lost none of the charm of the lads that come from the Ozark foothills—even if he is now considered a full-fledged New Yorker.

Studies Abroad

The Rev. Simmons, a Methodist, realized that his son had an unusually promising voice. One day, therefore, he told him he wanted him to go to Germany to study in Berlin under Professor Bachner. Later he coached with Rauchenstein, Fritz Kreiser's European accompanist.

"Dad is a wonderful scout," Bob says proudly when he tells of how he sacrificed to help him get along in the world. "He just understands all of us—and knows what we should do. And he has never tried to make ministers out of us. He has a larger church near St. Louis now. When I was born he was a circuit riding preacher and I used to ride around with him to his different parishes. I have two sisters, too. It was quite a family but dad was determined we should have our chances."

Bob's real name is William Simmons. But he had to change it for professional reasons because of the well-known baritone, William Simmons. The Civic Opera in St. Louis gave the young tenor his real start along the road to success. He went to Marionville prep school first.

New York All Right, But—

So different from the average member of the theatrical profession is Robert that the natural question was:

"How do you like New York?" He smiled a bit wistfully.

"Oh, New York has been good to me. I can't complain. But, you'd laugh if you knew what I really am looking forward to some of these days. I want a farm—a nice, big one."

"You mean you want to give up singing and be a horny-handed son of the soil?"

Ah, the Secret

"Well—," he faltered, "not—not just leave on farm. But, I would much rather not live in a big city. I want to be a GENTLEMAN farmer."

It has been brought out lately that cows respond to music and give more milk—and that even chickens can be kept more contented and give bigger and better eggs under the proper artistic atmosphere.

If Bob Simmons warbles a few opening bars of "Sweet Adeline" as he approaches his barn or chicken house—no telling what luck he may have!

ROBERT SIMMONS
BOB'S AMBITION IS TO BE A GENTLEMAN FARMER.

SUBWAY FRANCHISE IS BEFORE VOTERS

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 5.—A franchise ordinance for a 400-mile subway system in the Fifth City, was on the ballot as the voters went to the polls here today.

The ordinance was placed on the ballot after Charles H. Hubbell, local politician, won a suit filed by Ira J. Warner, Cleveland, as a taxpayer, to restrain W. A. C. Smith and all members of the board of elections from including the Hubbell subway ordinance in the election.

Hubbell has not revealed to city council information as to who will finance his subway proposal if the ordinance is approved.

What about carbon that mechanics can't reach?

Considerable carbon forms on the underside of piston heads. Not even the most conscientious removal job can reach this carbon.

When it is hard and flinty, this carbon chips off in gritty particles which drop into the crankcase. Mixing with the lubricating oil, they become a menace to expensive engine parts.

Shell Motor Oil avoids this danger. It forms a surprisingly small amount of carbon. And what little is deposited in a Shell-lubricated engine is soft, fluffy and soot-like... the kind which actually blows away with the exhaust gases.

Regular users of Shell Motor Oil are protected from the danger of abrasive carbon particles in the crankcase oil. They report a marked reduction in carbon removal jobs and a new freedom from "frozen" piston rings and pitted valves.

Only Nature's richest lubricating crude forms the base of Shell. Refined by the new Shell-developed, low-temperature process... never scorched or weakened. And tested 259 times before it reaches you.

That is why the rich, unvarying quality of Shell Motor Oil provides the four essentials of correct lubrication: Low Carbon Content, Non-Fouling Carbon, Ideal Body at All Operating Temperatures, and Low Pour Point.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

OUT OF THE HEART—A good man out of the good treasure of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil, for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.—Luke 6:45.

A SEARCHING QUESTION—And why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?—Luke 6:46.

CHURCH AND COTTON MILLS

A member of the Church League for Industrial Democracy, addressing a conference on the southern textile industry under the auspices of the Russell Sage foundation in New York, charges that the churches in the industrially disturbed sections of North Carolina are "undoubtedly owned and controlled by the mill owners," and that the clergy are "the moral police of the industrial overlords." A similar charge was brought against the church in Great Britain, at the time of the Chartist movement. The accusation reflects so seriously upon the machinery of Christianity that Americans are not likely to accept it, when directed against the church in North Carolina, without more proof than appears to have been adduced to date.

The connection of the Christian church with the affairs of this world has not been consistent throughout its history. At first the church was communistic. A few centuries later it was the chief bulwark of political power in Europe, a status which it defended by the scriptural injunction to render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's. At a still later date it was accused in Great Britain of preaching obedience to industrial, as well as to political overlords, as an antidote to the industrial ferment created by the introduction of the factory system. The accusers could point to at least one occasion on which parliament, asked for unemployment relief, voted money to open new churches instead. The reaction to this sort of thing, within the church itself, was "Christian socialism," among whose most vigorous and articulate expounders was Charles Kingsley, at one time chaplain to Queen Victoria. The Church League for Industrial Democracy presumably is thinking along the same lines.

As an internal reform, a movement of this sort has much to commend it. As an attempt to solve industrial problems by religious formulas it would be open to challenge. The duty of the church is to "preach Christ and Him crucified," with equal clarity and force to all classes of men. There cannot be one doctrine for the master and another for the servant. The interference of church agencies directly in industrial matters would be as dangerous as their interference in political matters always has been. The essence of religion is mystery. There is nothing mysterious about wages and working conditions. They are of the earth earthy. The enlistment of the church's peculiar influence over the minds of men in behalf of one party to the rivalry between capital and labor, would be as unfortunate for the church itself and for the body politic and economic, as would be its enlistment under the standard of the other.

It's a good thing for society that the crooks of the thrillers are not so clever in real life and the detectives so dumb.

Query for today: Why is it that women try so hard to imitate their brothers? For instance, as to cigarettes, clothes, hair and cussing, not to mention liquor.

So many things are alleged to keep the doctor away, eating apples, swatting flies, exercise, deep breathing, etc., that it's a wonder the physicians make enough for cigarette money.

A hint to Postmaster General Brown: The way to reduce the postal deficit is not necessarily an increase in rates, but a reduction of ?????? privilege, and a careful investigation of the cost of handling the parcel post business.

REMEMBER THESE?

William Gillette has quit the retirement of his spacious Connecticut estate for a sentimental journey over The Road to Yesterday, eviving his old plays, "Held by the Enemy," "Secret Service," "Too Much Johnson" and "Sherlock Holmes." It will be his professional alibi, offering the Younger "et their first, last and only chance to see one of the outstanding figures in the history of the American stage. To play lovers of the passing generation it will afford a final opportunity to pay their respects to one of the most engaging personages of the well-remembered past.

A professional mendicant approached Julius Tannen, "chatter box" of Earl Carroll fame, in front of the Palace theatre the other day. He wanted Julius to contribute half a buck toward his getting a hat.

"Here's your four bits," said Tannen. "There's an automaton across the street. Take my tip and try that place. With any kind of luck you can get a plate of beans, a cup of coffee and a hat there for half a dollar. I know, because I lost my lid there yesterday afternoon."

WHAT DO YOU THINK?
In George Kelly's new show, "Maggie the Magnificent," Joan Blondell, a third carbon copy of Rose Stahl, of "Chorus Lady" fame, fares forth with the statement that she is "going down to the drug store to get a pineapple temptation." Asked what a "pineapple temptation" is, she replies: "The same as a Mexican kiss, only it's made of pineapple!"

THE WAY of the WORLD

WORK AND STUDY

The president of an Indiana college has set up a fountain pen factory. Students are paid to work part time in the factory and study the rest of the time. It's an all year round college, so students can take fewer hours, work outside, and still get through in four years or less. This sort of thing appeals to those boys and girls who realize they don't go to school merely to join a fraternity and learn how to jump a hurdle. This college, by the way, according to the dispatches, is Oakland City college at Oakland City, Ind.

Berea college in Kentucky, and Antioch in Ohio, are two schools, also, where the value of combining work with lessons has been proved. It's an old thought that all work and no play is bad, but the average American college will have to change its ways mightily before the proportion between work and play even gets to be fifty-fifty.

READY TO GIVE

Few folks are naturally "tight." They are mostly generous. When they do not give liberally, or at least fairly well, it is usually because reasons for giving have not been well presented. They have not been sold on the usefulness of a project. There is money enough and to spare in the pockets of thousands, but intelligent men have to be shown. Youngstown, O., had a campaign for a new Y. M. C. A. building the other day. When a thousand citizens were called to a dinner which was to start the campaign, a committee which had been calling on a few folks of wealth and plenty suddenly reported that more than a million dollars had been subscribed and the campaign was over before it started.

Youngstown is not different from other cities. There are men generous and ready to do their part in every American town. But they must be approached with sincerity on a proposition that has merit.

IN GERMANY

A dispatch from Germany says the economic situation of the German middle and working classes is slowly improving. Bank deposits are steadily increasing. This tells the story. Even at that, the bank deposits are only 41 per cent of the pre-war total. The Germans are diligent, hardworking, thoughtful. It may not be with a rush, but they are coming back steadily and surely.

NOT FORGETTING BEAUTY

Connecticut sets a good example to sister states by doing more than merely building good roads. This state is setting out over 1,300 shade trees on its highways. The idea is to produce and preserve beauty. It is as important as to produce speed—perhaps more so.

Who's Who and Timely Views

ERA OF INTERNATIONAL GOOD WILL PREDICTED AS RESULT OF RADIO

By CHARLES CURTIS
Vice President of the United States (Charles Curtis was born at N. Topeka, Kas., Jan. 25, 1880. He was educated in the common schools. Admitted to the bar in 1881, he has practiced law at Topeka since. From 1893 to 1909 he was a member of congress. He was elected to the United States senate in 1907, was re-elected in 1915 and returned two terms. Last spring he resigned to become vice president. He is a Republican.)

The possibilities of international broadcasting, the interchange of radio programs between America, England, France, Germany, and other countries of the world is established; its full benefits will be felt in the not far distant future. It will help us realize that when we speak of the other nations of the world we are really speaking of individuals much like ourselves. I am looking forward to the day of the international program, for I know that when that time comes a new era will dawn.

It was less than 10 years ago that radio was first introduced to the public of the United States. Most of you remember the early days of broadcasting; the limited and unsatisfactory entertainment; the crude, home-made sets.

What a change has taken place! We have seen the evolution of radio from a novelty, a toy, a fad, into a luxury, and thence into a necessity of our daily life; it is an epic of modern business growth. Even in the United States, where we are becoming accustomed to rapid industrial growth and advancement this progress is breathtaking. And yet radio is still in its infancy with greater developments still to come.

We are hearing much these days to the effect that modern inventions are destroying American homelife. This is not true of radio. It holds a unique place in that it is returning us to our firesides, bringing to the home the best in entertainment and educational information.

In radio broadcasting's first few years of existence, entertainment was paramount. While I believe that entertainment always will be paramount in radio programs, yet I also believe that radio is an indispensable medium for disseminating timely information and a means of instruction on topics of general interest.

Before the advent of radio, those to whom you have entrusted the business of government made public addresses about their duties, but they were formal speeches made by visible persons to large audiences present in person.

YES, THE GRIDIRON SEASON IS ON!

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Massage has a more prominent place today in the field of beauty culture than ever before, although it has always been important. Massage is now used for reducing, and in its more gentle forms, for the removal and prevention of signs of age on the face and throat. It is used for curing dandruff and keeping the scalp healthy. Massage is also used on the hands and even on the feet to strengthen the muscles supporting the arch. In fact, I consider the curative value of massage to be so great, that I shall devote several articles to this subject.

In massaging the face, the greatest care has to be exercised, as the muscles are sensitive and responsive, and therefore easily stretched. So facial massage must be exceedingly gentle. I cannot caution you enough against touching your fingers to your face until you have enough knowledge to proceed correctly. For every time you touch your face you are adding or detracting from your looks. The forms of massage which I shall give you are very simple and you can all master their technique with a little practice.

All massage can be largely subdivided into three kinds—stroking, patting and hacking. This last is only used on the more fleshy parts of the body for reduction purposes.

Before attempting to touch the face or throat, you must learn the natural trend of the muscles, since your massage must follow this direction. This is the fundamental rule of correct massage and never changes. The skin around the eyes is particularly delicate, and not even stroking should be used. A gentle pat is especially essential in this area.

One good rule to remember is that massage for young people can be fairly vigorous, while massage for older people must be less strenuous.

In my subsequent articles I shall give in detail directions for massaging the face, throat, scalp, hands and the area around the eyes. Many of you will find these simple massage exercises extremely soothing and certainly beneficial if pursued regularly.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Ask anyone, "Who are the nine members of the United States supreme court?"

Almost invariably he will start briskly with "William Howard Taft," follow readily with "Oliver Wendell Holmes," probably get safely past "Louis D. Brandeis," and then he will begin to have to scratch his head.

"Harlan P. Stone" will be fourth on his list in a plurality of cases. After a little thought, maybe he will recall a couple more names. He will remember the others as soon as they are mentioned to him but the chances are that the whole nine will be too much for him, unaided. The last two or three will make him rack his brain, at any rate.

Moreover, while the subject of your experiment will reel off "William Howard Taft," Oliver Wendell Holmes, and Louis D. Brandeis," just that order nearly every time you try, the remaining half dozen will come to his mind here and there.

That is, after Associate Justice Brandeis' name, the rest will vary in order of precedence, experiment except for a slight preponderance in favor of Associate Justice Stone. Try it for yourself.

Of course it must be tried on folk who have a little acquaintance with the names of public men. I quite appreciate that there are plenty who could not get beyond Chief Justice Taft's—perhaps some that would not be sure of him.

A modicum of enlightenment in the subject is essential, or the test will not work at all.

Admitting that much, the result is about 95 per cent a certainty.

Is it not curious? No, I think not. William Howard Taft is chief justice. He is also former president. It is natural to his first on him. If it were not for his titular primacy on the bench and his presidential prestige, and maybe the long career as a cabinet member, governor-general and what not with which he preceded it, I doubt whether he would stand out any more conspicuously in the supreme court than Associate Justice Sanford.

If all the justices were on a level without any particular chief, there is no question in my mind that Justice Holmes would be just as invariably first, as he is now second, on the popular list.

Justice Holmes is noticeable by reason of being a great man.

So is Justice Brandeis. It may be he is as great as Justice Holmes.

Justice Holmes is much Justice Brandeis' senior—by 15 years in point of age; by 14 years in point of service. Perhaps that is why his name nearly always leads Justice Brandeis' when the question is asked, "Who are the members of the U. S. Supreme court?" Perhaps, too Justice Holmes has a shade the best of it because bookish people at least recollect his name as his literary father's before him.

Does this account for Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justices Holmes and Brandeis? It does to my satisfaction, anyhow.

As for the rest—a mediocre sextet, if anybody asks me.

Here they have, among only nine of them, a power equal to the president's, or the entire 331 members of the senate and the house of representatives combined, one of the three great branches of the government—folk speak of the supreme court with bated breath, as if it were practically of divine origin.

And it strains the average well-informed American's memory to call the roll of the judges' names—minus three.

Justice Stone? Oh, well, he was the latest appointee, and is not quite forgotten yet, on the bench.

He goes fishing with President Hoover, besides.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

LUNCHEON

Potato Soup with Croutons
Celery Baked Apples
Toasted Cheese Sandwiches
Milk or Tea

Here is a good luncheon menu for adults or children, although very little children would not, of course, be given the toasted cheese sandwiches. Plain toast—preferably whole wheat toast—would be given them with the baked apple.

Today's Recipes

Potato Soup—Three potatoes, one onion, one stalk of celery. Cook in a little water until soft, then strain through a wire strainer. Melt one tablespoon butter in a saucepan, add one tablespoon flour, mix smooth and gradually add one pint of milk. Add the potato mixture, season and let come to a boil. Serves three.

Croutons—To make croutons quickly, cut eight slices of bread, and butter on both sides. Cube and turn into a pan and brown in the oven a few minutes. When crisp and brown, serve with the potato soup.

Suggestions

Novel Sandwich When serving sandwiches, be it when you are entertaining or for Sunday evening supper, make them as attractive as possible. For instance, slice a long loaf of white bread lengthwise; cut off crust, then cut each long slice into thirds. Cut a bit off the corners on one end to make these corners slanting.

Spread the bread with butter, then with cream cheese; place a sprig of watercress on center of bread so the leaves will extend beyond the bread, then begin in one corner and roll the bread cornucopia fashion. The cress will protrude from the top of cornucopia. Parsley may be substituted for the watercress if preferred.

If a cloth is wrung out of hot water and wrapped around the sandwiches for about 20 minutes the sandwich will retain its shape and not unroll.

Two of these cornucopias placed on a plate with a few pickles and olives, or a slice of tomato on each side, may be served to each guest and will look very appetizing.

How to Wash Silk

Silk manufacturers have given considerable attention to the matter of dyeing their products in such a way that they can be washed. While it has been found possible to use certain dyes that will withstand high temperatures, the silk itself suffers if put into too hot water. Both colors and fabric come out best when lukewarm water is used for washing.

Use lukewarm and neutral soaps. Do not rub hard. Squeeze and work the garments in the suds. Do not twist the fabric. Rinse thoroughly in water of the same temperature, and remove the water finally by squeezing and patting between dry towels. Dry as quickly as possible, but never in the sun. Silk shoes should not be ironed, and many other knit garments do not need pressing.

For crepe de chine and other woven silks, use a warm, but not hot, iron, and protect the fabric with cheesecloth. The fabric should be evenly damp, but not wet. To keep pounce silk from spotting, iron it dry.

Shake 'Em Crosswise In shaking rugs if you hold the rug so as to shake it crosswise instead of lengthwise, the hem will stay in longer and it will not whip the ends apart or cause it to unravel.

Diet and Health

Cancer
Does cancer occur the second time in the same place?
"MRS. T."

No, not necessarily, Mrs. T., if it has been removed or destroyed before the cancer cells are distributed throughout the body, and if all the local cancer cells are removed or destroyed at the time of the treatment.

We do not yet know the cause of cancer. There is some biological-chemical change in the tissues, coupled in certain instances with chronic irritations. You should see that your diet is well balanced and your tissue fluids have good circulation, through the use of your muscles—in other words, a needed amount of physical exercise. You should keep in touch with your surgeon.

We have articles on Balanced Diet and the Tummy Ten exercises which you may have by following column rules. If you are interested in some literature on cancer, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West 43d Street, New York City.

B. In 100 calories of buttermilk and skim milk (10 ounces), approximately 35 of the calories are protein, and 55 are carbohydrates (starches and sugars) and the balance fat. Ten ounces of whole milk is 200 calories, with approximately the same number of protein and carbohydrate calories, and with many more calories of fat, on account of the cream.

In the instance you spoke of, the printing of 25 C. of protein in 100 calories of buttermilk must have been a typographical error.

"Will you please tell me what harm, if any, there may be in eating coffee beans? I have had this habit for many years. Mrs. A."

It would depend upon how many coffee beans you ate, Mrs. A., and your individual susceptibility to caffeine. People differ in this markedly.

I have read that about 50 coffee beans would give a grain of caffeine, but it seems to me that it would produce more than that, for I think that number, ground would make more than one tablespoon of the coffee, the amount usually used to make a cupful of coffee. An ordinary cup of coffee has from two to four grains of caffeine, depending upon its strength. (Two to four grains is a medicinal dose for a stimulant.)

There is another principle in coffee that may be harmful and that is tannic acid, and no doubt in eating the whole bean, the full strength of the tannic acid would be taken.

Where excess amounts of caffeine are taken in the form of tea, coffee and cola drinks, there is no doubt that a chronic poisoning is produced. Among the symptoms are dyspepsia, succeeded by nervousness, restlessness and excitement, tremor, disturbed sleep, lack of appetite, headache, dizziness, palpitation, constipation, hysterical disturbances, (M. Guigau.)

I was interested to find in one of my textbooks that when tea and coffee first became popular, it was urged that the new beverages reduced the consumption of alcohol. One Poulsson, in 1728, said: "Were there no other use in tea and coffee, they are nevertheless useful in that they have caused drunkenness, which was formerly so prevalent, to go out of fashion. Our wives and daughters can now pay ten visits in one morning, and yet come home quite sober."

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What to do, what to do?

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I'm in love with a man who doesn't even know I exist. I've never met him, but I have been places where he has been. I can't sleep, and I've lost weight rapidly."

"My mother says I'm working too hard. My doctor told me the same thing, and that I would have a nervous breakdown if I didn't have a rest."

"I'm content just to sit and watch him. I don't know of any way to get acquainted with him. Oh, Virginia, won't you please help me."

"BROKEN HEARTED SALLY."

You're in a bad way, old dear. It's a great pity I can't introduce the man to you, because you'd probably find him not at all what your imagination pictures, and you'd be so disappointed you'd recover quickly from your imaginary state of love sickness.

You're in an abnormal state of mind, and had better get some form of good physical exercise, like swimming, dancing, hiking, gymnastics, to stimulate your circulation and wash the cobwebs out of that sentimental mind of yours. A psychologist would do you good, and might tell you some fundamental truths about your state of mind that would not make you quite so proud of it.

If you are really working hard enough to cause a breakdown—good, honest work seldom does this, however—you should stop it, of course, but if it's imaginary love for this man you don't know, throw your shoulders back, inhale the cool, fresh autumn air, and make up your mind you are going to be a healthy, modern young woman, not a sickly sentimentalist.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am so unhappy. I am 19 years old. Two years ago I met a nice fellow. He loved me so much and wanted me to go steady, but I wouldn't. He was so jealous."

"A year ago I started going steady with him and now I love him dearly, and he says he doesn't see how I can love him when I went with other fellows last summer."

He quit me and is going with another girl. Oh, please help me to win him back.

"A BROKEN HEARTED BLONDE."

I'm afraid it can't be done, dear. His love couldn't have been very deep or he wouldn't have gotten over it so soon. He must be rather small and petty, and have gone with you long enough to win your love and then quit.

I suppose he thinks he is punishing you for not falling for him at first. Try to think you're better off without him, and put the experience down to profit and loss.

STORY

The band did its level best to play a merry tune. However, the music was so jerky that Peter, marching with his arm linked in Stag Beetle's claw, found it hard to keep in step. He trod on Stag's toes and Stag stepped on his toes and at last the boy could stand it no longer.

"De let me walk by myself, Stag," cried he, unliking his arm from the beetle's claw. "I have only two feet, you know, and they will not keep step with your six."

Stagg nodded.

"Go it alone, if you want to," said he. "I noticed that you were tumbling about a bit, but you didn't hurt me at all."

ing you for not falling for him at first. Try to think you're better off without him, and put the experience down to profit and loss.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am an ardent reader of your column. Just recently I read a letter of a girl who signed herself Brown Eyes. I am a young man of 25 and I would like to meet Brown Eyes. I have quiet, pleasant disposition, and a neat dresser, but most girls consider me a 'flat tire.' I don't use tobacco or liquor, and I don't like girls who smoke. I find it rather difficult to meet some real nice girls."

"LONELY HEART."

Sorry I can't introduce you to a nice girl, Lonely Heart, and also sorry I can't do as you ask about a correspondence club. There must be any number of girls who would answer your requirements for a girl friend. Are you sure you haven't overlooked them? If people are jolly, sympathetic and attractive, they don't usually have any trouble making friends. Maybe you expect the girls to entertain you and don't give them a good time. How about it?

HOPING: I do think you are pretty young to go out riding with boys, dear. Can't you put it off for awhile yet?

TRUE LOVE writes that True Pal has misunderstood the situation as pertaining to her, True Love, and True Pal's brother, and she wishes she—True Pal—would go to see her and straighten it out. True Love DOES love True Pal's brother. Get together, girls, and fix it up.

MAURITA: That was a long letter, wasn't it, Maurita? And all I can gather from it is that you want to know whether I think you should be allowed to have boy friends come to your home? Yes, I do. I think it much safer than going riding with them without your parents' knowledge or consent. Awfully glad you are doing so well in school and are the president of the class. Keep it up. You never regret that part of your life, although you may look back, years from now, and think many things you have done were foolish and wish you had been wiser.

To put summer clothes away clean now not only will save time next spring, but will save them from the damaging effect of dust on the fibers.

WILBERFORCE PLAYS HOWARD ELEVEN IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Wilberforce University "Bulldogs" will invade Washington, D. C., Saturday for another intercollegiate football game with the much-defeated Howard University.

Football News

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Undimmed by the outcome of the Georgetown game and determined to vindicate itself in the remaining games on the schedule, New York University's violet grid squad today continued its drive in preparation for Georgia.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Following a full day's rest, Yale's varsity squad today resumed practice, this time for Maryland. The injury of Hall and Wilson, quarterbacks, has started a general search of the squad for a field general to assist Booth.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—The Harvard varsity was today engaged in a long workout against Michigan players with the exception of Art Huguely, one of the two best kickers on the squad. Coach Horween will have every player in shape when the crimson tackles Michigan at Ann Arbor on Saturday.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 5.—With Al Marsters in the infirmary and the whole squad footsore and weary as a result of the Yale game, Dartmouth today resumed football practice. Tommy Longnecker will take over the duties of Marsters while the green ace is recuperating.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—With a day of limbering up after the Dakota game behind them, army players today resumed strenuous practice. The major portion of yesterday's drill was devoted to kicking and passing, with Cagle and Carver doing most of the ball-flogging.

BEREA, O., Nov. 5.—Practice in Baldwin Wallace's football camp was centered on developing a scoring punch and that is expected to be the menu for the remainder of the week. The Bereans failed to score in their tie with Ohio Northern Saturday and Coach Watts promised that his squad would be in a better condition for the Otterbein tilt.

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 5.—Fresh from their victory over Oberlin, Wooster College's gridiron machine was sent through a scrimmage yesterday. Coach Boles warned against over-confidence as the result of the large Oberlin score.

GRANVILLE, O., Nov. 5.—Scrimmage against a freshman team will be Denison's gridiron menu for the next three days in preparation for their Dad's day game with Ohio University Saturday.

ASHLAND, O., Nov. 5.—Ashland College griders are priming themselves for the coming "Tie" tilt. A slight workout was the order of things yesterday and a hard scrimmage against the varsity is on tap for this afternoon.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—New plays were meted out to the St. Xavier Musketeers in a light practice session yesterday. They meet Dayton Saturday and will be out for blood to avenge their defeat by Western Reserve.

OSHERLIN, O., Nov. 5.—A crippled Oberlin team may take the field against the strong Miami University aggregation Saturday. Brooks and Butzberger, backfield men of no mean ability, are on the injured list and may not be in shape again for a week. Beattie, star punter and ball carrier is suffering from a sprained ankle.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 5.—A revamped Dayton Flyers backfield will meet St. Xavier Saturday. In an intensive signal drill yesterday, Cabrini was barking the signals, Gowan and Lutz were at the halberd, and Marshall was in the fullback berth. Dayton looks forward to the St. Xavier tilt with confidence.

OXFORD, O., Nov. 5.—Miami University's moleskin warriors face a stiff week of practice following their defeat by Ohio University. They confidentially expect to win their remaining games.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 5.—Wittenberg will dedicate its new $400,000 gymnasium and field house Saturday when it meets Ohio Wesleyan and the stiff practice session shows that the Lutherans are going to do their best to send the Fighting Bishops home lamenting the fact they came to Springfield.

PAROLED FROM JAIL
ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Amiel Bent, 32, colored, 44 Taylor St., indicted prisoner in the County Jail, has been granted a parole by County Commissioners. Bent was fined $1,000 and costs on a conviction for possessing liquor by Mayor Karl R. Babb September 12 and was committed to jail for failure to pay the assessment. The parole was authorized on the condition Bent pays the fine and costs at the rate of $5 a month, starting December 16.

Safe Prescription

COUGHS AND SORE THROAT
RELIEVED ALMOST INSTANTLY

Stop children's coughs and sore throats before these ailments lead to dangerous ills. Thoxine, a doctor's prescription, now assures relief within 15 minutes to children as well as adults without the danger in the use of patent medicines containing harmful drugs.

Thoxine works on a different principle, goes direct to the source of trouble and relieves the irritation which causes the coughing and sore throat. Ideal for children because it is safe and does not have the usual "nasty-medicine" taste.

No gagging. Just ask for Thoxine, put up ready for use in 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Money back if not relieved. All Druggists.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD EMPLOYEE PLACED ON HONOR ROLL NOVEMBER 1

AFTER more than forty-seven years of continuous service, James Donovan, 66, Xenia, fuel station laborer, has retired from active service and his name was added to the Pennsylvania Railroad Roll of Honor November 1. He has been disabled on account of ill health since January 26 last year.

As a trackman Mr. Donovan recalled that he helped lay the first steel rail between Xenia and New Paris and that on the Springfield branch line the longest rails were in fifteen and eighteen inch lengths, two inches in height and were laid without angle bars on what were called chairs. Four spikes were driven in the ties at the ends of the rails to hold them together.

Mr. Donovan was born in County Cork, Ireland, October 20, 1863. Since coming to the United States, arriving at Philadelphia May 17, 1882, he has lived in Xenia all his life.

He entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad May 25, 1882 as a section laborer, and after seventeen years of service in the M. and W. department was promoted to foreman. His service in the M. and E. department dates from August 28, 1899.

Shortly before the accident, which occurred about 6:30 p. m., the auto in which the trio was riding, was struck by the rear end of a Pennsylvania train which was backing across a Cincinnati Ave. crossing. After an examination of the car, the men drove on to the Shawnee Creek bridge. It is believed the radius rod of the steering apparatus was damaged in the accident and refused to function, causing the machine to get out of control and plunge through the safety rail into the creek.

TWO INJURED AS AUTO PLUNGES THROUGH GUARD RAIL OF BRIDGE

To have twice escaped death in two accidents which occurred a few minutes apart was the experience of three Xenians, two of whom were injured, however, in the second mishap, early Monday night.

Two of the three men were injured when a touring car said to have been driven by John Toner, 45, Xenia, crashed through an iron guard railing of a bridge on Cincinnati Ave., and plunged twenty-five feet to the shallow waters of Shawnee Creek below.

Toner sustained a broken right leg and Walter Heather, 46, also of Xenia, received a broken right collar bone and a fractured rib. A third companion, Harvey Riley, escaped injury.

The three autoists were hauled ashore, the damaged auto pulled out of the creek and the injured pair taken to McClellan Hospital for treatment.

Offices for the proposed Xenia Flying School being established in this city by Raymond Hanes and Clifford Cummings, both of Dayton, were opened at 27 Green St., above Sutton's Music Store, Monday, and reports of interest being shown by Xenians indicate that the enrollment limit of twenty students for the course will be quickly reached.

Xenians sufficiently "air-minded" to want to learn how to fly themselves, are being urged to enroll in the school as soon as possible because only twenty applicants can be enrolled. For the convenience of all prospective students offices of the school will remain open until 8:30 p. m. each day.

The department of commerce requires that all pilots must have a ground school course, receiving both technical and practical instruction in flying, before a pilot's license is issued to a student. The proposed course will therefore consist of aerodynamics, plane and motor construction, plane and motor controls, navigation, airplane design, rigging, assembling and other technical details which are essential to obtaining a pilot's license.

The one objective of the Xenia Flying School, according to the Dayton airmen, is to provide the students with a thorough knowledge of all types of airplanes and their motors. The school will install a Travelair biplane in a building at the Robbins and Myers plant, Home Ave., Saturday for practical instruction work.

FLYING SCHOOL IS CAUSING INTEREST AMONG AIR-MINDED

RACKET COMMITTEE BOASTS STATE ROAD MEETING IN XENIA

En route on a motor trip that will carry it over the entire route of the proposed Bulskin-Xenia highway Tuesday, the advertising or "racket committee" of the Blanchester Chamber of Commerce stopped in Xenia early Tuesday morning and was greeted by a large number of representative Xenians interested in the proposal to have the historic trail improved as a state highway.

The tour of the Blanchester group is being made to stimulate interest along the route in a public hearing to be held at Blanchester Nov. 8. The demonstration will be conducted by the state highway department and arguments for and against the proposition to have the road included in the state highway system will be heard at that time.

The "racket committee" arrived in Xenia in three automobiles and its members were met at the Detroit St. entrance of the Court House by Prof. H. C. Aultman, president of the Bulskin-Xenia Highway Association, and other Xenians. Afterward the committee drove through the city and scattered handbills urging attendance at the Blanchester hearing.

Following its brief stay in Xenia, the committee continued its trip south along the trail to the Ohio River, expecting to reach its destination late Tuesday after making similar stops at villages all along the route.

MELLON TARGET OF BROOKHART ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—An appeal to President Hoover to remove Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon while "placing a man who means business" in charge of prohibition enforcement featured an expose of liquor conditions today by Senator Brookhart (R.) of Iowa, in the senate.

He held Mellon directly responsible for any failure in prohibition enforcement. The lawman charged that Mellon had offered $50,000,000 for additional dry enforcement but had refused it.

The lawman, however, asserted that prohibition conditions were greatly improved over the old saloon days.

Bowling Scores.

Changing the entire complexion of the Recreation League race, the champion Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team gave the championship aspirations of the Bearus Watch quietest a severe jolt by winning three straight games by the league leaders Monday night. Prior to the match the Bearus team had a lead of two full games. The triple defeat dropped the leaders into a tie with the Gr. Co. L. Co. with the possibility the Red Wing Co. may go into first place if it wins three games this week. The winners had a three-game total of 2,766. Peterson topped the lumber company with a series of 570. Smith led the losers with a 585 total. Box score:

BRINGING UP FATHER

COTTON STOCKINGS
ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Author of "THE FLAT TIRE"

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, after the death of her mother, secures a position at the hostelry counter in a Philadelphia store through the kindness of Kenneth Du Barry, an actress. She is adored by her land-lady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, corner newsboy. Her first day at the store she wears a pair of cotton stockings because she finds a "run" in her old pair of silk ones. After the girls at the store make fun of her, Rosalie, in desperation, takes a pair of silk stockings from the stock, promising herself to make good for them pay day. In her confusion, leaving the store, she drops the hose, and is observed by Alberto Martino, the store detective, who does not detain her, but says he will see her later.

Now, Clarke Andrews, nephew of the store owner, notices Rosalie and chats with her daily. Rosalie has a boy friend, Neil McKinley, back home, but they quarreled when she left for the city.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

Aside from Roy Clarke's daily chats at her counter that were always funny and cheered her up, the next two weeks passed quite uneventfully for Rosalie.

She had grown used to Ann's wise cracks about everyone around her—and really liked the trowsy little blond.

Ann was unstinted in her praise of Rosalie's ability to catch on to the selling business. She won her completely one day when she told her without a trace of jealousy:

"You been outsellin' this old war horse every day this week, Angel Face. First thing you know I'll be workin' for you."

Martino passed Rosalie with a smile and a nod. Gradually her fear and shame began to pass, and she felt like holding her head up in the world again. It all seemed like a bad dream. Once when Martino passed and Ann saw him smile at Rosalie she made a face and shuddered.

"Oh! I'd as soon meet a pink lion with a handful of shotguns in the dark as that bird."

Rosalie looked at her in surprise. "But—why? Isn't he all right?"

"Right? If I'm a student of human anatomy that guy's mug is playin' leads in the rogues picture gallery right this minute."

There were times when a look on Martino's face made her shudder, too. But she felt she was doing him wrong and quickly tried to stifle her distrust. Hadn't he saved her from jail?

Mother Murphy knocked on Rosalie's door that evening and came in with a mischievously mysterious air.

"Sure, what color auto did ye say that by ye was breakin' yer heart after back home was after sportin'?"

"A red one," Rosalie looked at her, perplexed. "Why?"

Mother stood with her arms out blocking the door and her eyes twinkling.

"And has he got yaller hair and a dumb little nose that turns up like he was after smellin' somethin' bad—and is he a young lookin' and half-baked?"

"Mother Murphy!" Rosalie jumped. "Whatever are you talking about?"

Mother spread her skirts and barred the door.

"Ye'll be gettin' into yer green insimil dress right this minute, young lady. And not another word out of ye! He's cluttrin' up me front door with himself and blockin' in traffic with that red can!"

By this time Rosalie was trembling with joy. When she tried to push mother from the door to rush down she was shoved back.

"Ye green wan it is, and he can wait. No back talk."

Before mother would let her through she made her pay toll with the quarter she had been saving that she would never see him again.

A minute later she was a blur of tearful happiness in Neil's arms.

"Oh, honey, you aren't mad at me, then?" she clung to him joyfully.

"Naw," he kissed her. "I got awful ashamed of myself for being such a baby."

She sighed with content and sat back.

"Oh, it doesn't matter now. I'm so happy to see you I could die. It's—it's been awfully lonely."

"Gosh, I thought you would be back in a week," he grinned. "I didn't even believe you'd ever go. How's tricks?"

She bubbled to him about the store and her new life for a little while. He was taking in the street and the surroundings with eyes that showed their distaste.

"Criminy, what a dump of a block to live in," he said then. "What are you doing in this part of Philadelphia?"

"I can't afford anything better,"

"Gosh, I thought you would be back in a week."

Rosalie spoke up, a little sharply. "Besides, Mother Murphy's boardin' house is very respectable—and she's good to me."

He dropped the subject. "Had dinner?"

She told him she always ate at six.

"Then you'll have to go with me while I eat, I'm starved."

When he drove to one of the smartest restaurants in the city Rosalie felt a little panicky. Of course she wasn't going to eat and she wouldn't have to order. But, she had never been in a restaurant in her life.

The headwaiter said, "Good evening," and she stood nonplussed. She didn't even know whether she should go before Neil—or that she should even follow the man who spoke to them, to the table. Neil saw her uncertainty and pushed her a little ahead of him.

When they were seated he grinned his smart-aleck grin and shook his head, wisely:

"Rosalie—you sure got a lot to learn."

It hurt her so that she wanted to cry. But she wanted so much to be happy that she blinked the tears back and pretended she didn't care. He ordered ice cream for her and she ate it with fingers that trembled.

Neil asked for cracked ice and took out a large flask.

"I always bring my own ginger ale with me," he grinned again. "If I bought it here I'd feel just like you did the night of the dance."

He filled the glass three times during the meal.

She could not be very gay. Something about Neil's hilarity and the way he reached over and pursed his lips to her before all those people embarrassed her.

When they got in the car she felt relieved. He stepped on the gas and the car lurched forward.

"Not afraid to ride fast tonight, are you, Rosie?"

Harrison A. MacIsaac, 38, Springfield, well-known in Xenia, was killed Monday afternoon while hunting in the Adirondack Mountains near Boonville, N. Y.

Mr. MacIsaac was on a hunting trip with Dr. G. M. Lane, Springfield, and they went to a hunting lodge near Boonville a week ago.

He was supervising representative of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., in Springfield, but became well-known here as representative for the Joint Stock Land Bank, operating in this county several years ago with offices at the Chamber of Commerce.

He was prominent in fraternal circles, being a member of the Masons, Antioch Temple of the Mystic Shrine, was a Thirty-Second Degree Mason and a Knight Templar. He was also widely known as a hunter and sportsman, belonging to several gun clubs and the American Trappers' Association. He is survived by his widow, and his mother, Mrs. Alexander MacIsaac.

One of the final bombshells in Canton's majority campaign was thrown by Merritt C. Jacobs, Canton policeman, who, during a week-end political rally, linked certain members of the police department here with the underworld. Jacobs was suspended from the police force as a result of his charges. He stated today he will appeal his suspension before the civil service commission.

"Oh, Neil," she was really worried, "you aren't going to drive terribly fast, are you? It's against the law here, you know."

He roared with laughter then and yelled recklessly.

"What'da I care about speed laws! My pop's got lots of money. He pulled the flask out and held it to Rosalie's lips.

"Here, taste this."

"I don't LIKE it! It smells terrible," Rosalie tried to push it away but he insisted.

"Aw, for cripes sake, don't be such a wet smack!" he burst out at her, petulantly.

She took a little swallow and it burned her throat. Neil took another drink and started down the street at breakneck speed.

A cop rolled alongside on a motorcycle and yelled at them murderously:

"Ease up, you two saps, and pull up at the curb."

Neil saw the uniform and stopped. The cop's face was red.

"Drinkin' out of a flask and drivin' like a fool. Smart, ain't yez? Come along both of yez."

The Theater

Dorothy Mackaill, who introduced talkies to the Bijou Theater Saturday night in the sound debut, "Hard To Get," is coming back to that theater Tuesday for a three day visit in "The Great Divide," a First National-Vitaphone picture.

The West presents a colorful background for this 100 per cent talking, singing and dancing picture, which was adapted from the popular stage play of the same name which enjoyed success over a period of years.

The picture is directed by Reginald Barker and Ian Keith plays opposite Miss Mackaill. Others in the supporting cast are: Lucien Littlefield, Ben Hendricks, Myrna Loy, Frank Tantz, Creighton Hale, George Fawcett, Jean Laverty, Claude Gillingwater, Roy Stewart, James Ford, Jean Lorraine and Gordon Elliott.

Sound pictures, long considered before introduced to Xenia, have met with instant popular approval here. The Bijou Saturday night ran continuous shows from 6:30 to midnight, playing to more than

No date for the introduction of sound pictures to the Orpheum Theater, Main and Whitman Sts., has been forthcoming, but it is expected to be soon. That theater has been wired for sound pictures and a number of the popular Warner Bros., all talking and singing films have already been booked. When the Orpheum opens with sound Xenia will have gone completely talkie.

"Tea for Three", the Little Theater Guild opening vehicle for its second season is based on the eternal triangle for plot and enjoyed a long Broadway run.

Mrs. Esther Schick, whose capable direction brought success to the Guild's first season, is coaching the small cast necessary for this play, which will be presented Friday night. Miss Margaret Little, Fred Flynn and Marcus McCallister are playing the leading roles and are supported in minor parts by Miss Helen Spahr and Bob Ellis. The Guild is advising the public that membership tickets now being sold are good for all of the season's productions, and

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

TO BE DETERMINED BY SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The United States supreme court has been called upon to decide whether a state can convict a man of violating prohibition laws on evidence obtained in a search of his house without search warrant in spite of the federal constitutional provision against unreasonable search and seizure.

The case comes to a high court from Iowa where the state supreme court sustained the conviction of A. C. Bamsey, a World War veteran in Creston.

In appealing to the high court, Bamsey contended that the Iowa court not only disregarded its own constitutional provision but has violated the Anglo-Saxon theory that "a man's home is his castle."

Bamsey's apartment was entered by police officers, who alleged that they found some intoxicating liquor. He was convicted. No search warrant was obtained by the officers before they entered his home.

He vainly sought to suppress the evidence on the ground that the officers violated section 8 of the Iowa constitution, which is identical with the fourth of the federal constitution, providing:

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by an oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the person or things to be seized."

Bamsey's attorneys contend that the U. S. supreme court has already held in federal cases that evidence obtained through an illegal search and seizure cannot be used against an accused man. They permit the state of Iowa to use these prohibited methods in enforcing constitutional provision is to set aside the effect of the fourth amendment, he contends.

Iowa authorities hold that there was ample power in the state laws for the conviction. Despite the fact that prohibition is a decade old, many other knotty cases on this subject are pending in the high court.

Government Appeals
The government in three cases is appealing from unfavorable lower court decisions where it was held that the treasury could not through regulations cancel permits for making of denatured alcohol an issue or refuse to issue new ones.

Several chemical companies, who had received permits for making alcohol and were subsequently told that they were revoked, attacked the authority exercised by the treasury prohibition officials.

In another unusual prohibition case, the government sought to confiscate an electrical plant placed on the property of the Elk Breeding and Grazing Association in Massachusetts by the Kohler Company. The government claimed that it was used in making liquor.

The Kohler Company, which said there was still $162 due on the machine, contended that the government could not confiscate the property, and won in lower courts.

CHANGE PENSIONS
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5. — The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has announced the discontinuance of the pension system for employees and the substitution of the annuity plan. Fifty thousand workers are affected by the change. The company will give earned rewards to employees who retire at the age of sixty-five.

The short jacket suit will be worn through the winter. These suits are practical worn under a long coat for everyday, or, in the more elaborate versions, for dress. JOHNSTON'S THRONE IS NOW WOBBLING

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 5.—The throne of Mayor Arthur R. Johnson, the only Negro mayor in Ohio, was said to be wobbling precariously as voters went to the polls in Miles Heights, near here today.

Johnson's place would be secure, Miles Heights politicians explain, but for his alleged failure to enforce an emergency ordinance against the sale or possession of fireworks last summer. They say further the Miles Heights political situation is the most tangled in Cuyahoga County today.

Four opposition candidates are in the running for Johnson's place. Mrs. Ruth O. Boltz, a candidate

Vicks Now Passes 26 Million Yearly!

More and More Millions Follow
Trend of Modern Medicine and
Treat Colds Externally

To keep pace with the ever-growing demand for Vicks VapoRub, the external treatment for colds, another increase is being made in the figure of the Vicks slogan, made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Only a short time ago, the well known "17 Million" was raised to "21 Million." Again this figure has been outgrown, as more and more people turn to this better way of treating colds. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a far for every family in the United States.

A generation ago, when Vicks was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers especially have appreciated this modern vaporizing ointment, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs.

And so Vicks spread, until today it has become the family standby for colds—adults' as well as children's—in more than 60 countries.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Hi Y Club held its regular meeting Monday night. There were seventeen members present. A regular business meeting was held and the constitution was drawn up. It was decided to hold the next meeting with the Washington C. H. Hi Y Club as guests and perform the induction ceremony.

The style of pin was also chosen for the club. An advisory committee was suggested and its members will be announced at a later date. After some discussion on the part of several members the meeting was adjourned.

The student council was called together by Mr. Woodruff Monday morning for the purpose of forming a Junior Community Chest Club. The plan suggested by Mr. Woodruff met with the approval of the club and an executive council is expected to be formed within a day or two. Another meeting is to be held Tuesday during the opening exercise period at

Between 50 And 100 Dead; Relief Is Organized

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Nov. 5.—Every available relief agency today was working under the personal direction of President Chacon to alleviate the suffering of the hundreds made homeless by the eruption of the volcano Santa Maria.

Exact estimates of the death toll exacted by the swift-flowing lava flowing down the sides of the volcano were impossible. However, it was believed between 50 and 100 persons lost their lives when trapped in the path of the volcano's lava flow.

An airplane observer who flew as low over the crater as he dared, reported that the volcano's activity was continuing and that the course of the main flow of lava was toward the sea.

Numerous large coffee plantations were completely wiped out. Property damage was estimated in excess of $2,000,000.

Homeless and wounded trekked into this city today in every possible conveyance bringing numerous tales of horror.

The volcano Santa Maria is 12,300 feet high and overlooks the Pacific Ocean. It is seventy miles northwest of this city. It has intermittently shown signs of activity since 1902 when it erupted and destroyed Quetzaltenango and other towns, but the present eruption has caused more damage than any since then.

PRISONER WOUNDED DURING JAIL BREAK DIES; OTHERS FREE

Brooker Succumbs To Hurts; Guard Recovering

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—A convict is dead here today and two others are still at large, as the result of the partly successful early morning jail delivery at the Ohio State Penitentiary here yesterday.

Arthur Brooker, 23, of Findlay, who was sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary for beating Samuel McMichael, Findlay storekeeper to death with milk bottles, is the dead prisoner.

His death resulted from gun shot wounds he received when he and two other convicts drilled, slugged and shot their way from the state prison. Brooker was fatally wounded as he and a guard struggled in the glare of huge searchlights on the "cat-walk" on top of the penitentiary walls.

The two companions escaped and police are continuing their search for the fugitives today. The usual reward of $50 for each man captured has been posted. Those at large are Guy Tennent, Cuyahoga county, and Will Miller, 20, Lawrence county. Both were serving 10-to-25-year terms for robbery.

Meanwhile, Guard J. R. Montgomery is recovering at his home from the effects of the mauling he received at the hands of the desperate convicts. He was beaten into insensibility by the trio as he attempted to prevent their escape.

Brooker succeeded in getting over the thirty foot wall, but he was found mortally wounded on a railroad right-of-way within 100 yards of the penitentiary, hours after his reported escape.

Police rushed to the Ohio State University campus when it was reported that the convicts were seen there yesterday afternoon. The "tip" proved unfounded, however.

CONFESSES FIRING HOME; WOMAN FACES ARSON ACCUSATION

Fired House Because Of "Conditions At Home" She Says

BUENOS AIRES, O., Nov. 5.—Charged with setting fire to her own home, Mrs. Joseph Sabage, 48, is at liberty under $500 bond today and police say they have a written confession which is signed by the woman saying she had committed the alleged arson because of "conditions at the house." The woman's husband posted the bail.

He awoke on the morning of October 18 to find his home in flames in four places and an out building ablaze. The Sabage barn had been burned down just a year ago that date during a series of barn fires in Crawford County which caused an aggregated loss of about $100,000.

Vandals were held responsible for the barn fires and when the Sabage house burned, this, also, was at first ascribed to incendiarism.

But Mrs. Sabage is said to have failed to cover her tracks. She allegedly used coal-oil and threw the can in an adjoining field. Police found it and the woman's fingerprints were impressed in the oil and dirt which had accumulated on it, the officers claim.

Police refused to divulge the contents of the confession, but at the same time denied that the woman had burned her home to gain the insurance. When arraigned on an arson charge, the woman pleaded not guilty.

HIT-SKIP AUTOIST SOUGHT IN DEATH

URBANA, O., Nov. 5.—Police today are pushing a search for the hit-and-run motorist who last night ran down and fatally injured James Martin, 64, an employee of the state highway office here. Martin was a native of Gallipolis.

The accident occurred on state highway Number 55, about a mile from here. Martin was unable to give a description of the death car before he succumbed to a compound fracture of the skull.

AGED MAN IS KILLED

BELLAIRE, O., Nov. 5.—William Marling, 84, was run down and killed by an automobile while crossing a street here. The driver of the machine was detained by police pending a probe.

SELECT CANTON MAN TO SUCCEED BURTON AS U. S. SENATOR

SENATE COALITION PLANS AMENDMENTS TO TARIFF MEASURE

Will Ask "Old Guard" To Accept Changes In Bill

Former Congressman Is Appointed To Post By Governor

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—Ohio's vacant chair in the United States Senate was filled today when Governor Myers Y. Cooper appointed Roscoe C. McCulloch, chairman of the State Utilities Commission as the successor to the late Senator Theodore E. Burton.

McCulloch is a Republican. He will serve until December 15, 1930.

The newly appointed senator is a native of Holmes County and he established his residence in Canton, where he gained political prominence. He served three years as assistant prosecutor in Stark County where he also served on the board of elections and as head of the County Republican committee.

McCulloch, if he wishes to retain his seat in the senate, will have to run for election next year, though the late Senator Burton's term does not expire until March 4, 1935. Ohio law provides that an appointee shall serve only until a successor can be elected by the people.

McCulloch will be the fourth person to serve as senator in the term. The late Senator, Frank B. Willis was the first to occupy the seat in the upper house of Congress. He dropped dead in March, 1928, after delivering a homecoming speech at Delaware. Governor Donahoe appointed Cyrus Locher, Cleveland to fill Senator Willis' position. Locher died last August and the term remained unfilled until Senator Burton was elected.

INDICT UMPIRE FOR ATTACKING FAN

PAULDING, O., Nov. 5.—Clyde Crone, amateur baseball umpire, today stands indicted on assault and battery charges in connection with the death of John Straley, a baseball fan, who died from injuries which he received at the hands of Crone during an argument over a contested decision.

A coroner's report had freed Crone of the charges, but the grand jury acted without considering that.

Crone is alleged to have struck Straley when the latter was heckling his decisions.

TOO MANY GRAPES

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Wholesale grape dealers here announced that wine-making in Chicago was decreasing. An over supply of grapes on the market sent prices tumbling.

MISS M'DONNELL WINS

Young Xenia Singer Wins Atwater Kent Audition In Ohio Contest

"I can't believe it. I certainly never expected to win the audition. There was so much competition. I really don't know what to say."

Miss Eleanor McDonnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McDonnell, 77 Walnut St., was overjoyed Monday night upon learning that her soprano voice was selected from a field of twenty-seven candidates representing fourteen cities as the winner of the Southern Ohio division of the national Atwater Kent radio contest recently conducted over station WAU at Columbus.

As the winner in southern Ohio, Miss McDonnell will enter the district contest to be held some time this month at Chicago. The Chicago winner will participate in the national championship contest at New York.

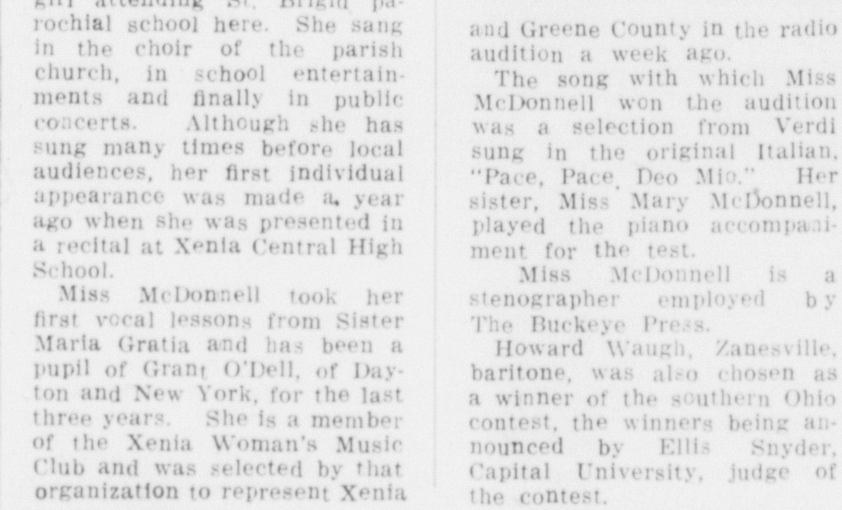

Miss McDonnell began to sing when she was a little girl attending St. Bridget parochial school here. She sang in the choir of the parish church, in school entertainments and finally in public concerts. Although she has sung many times before local audiences, her first individual appearance was made a year ago when she was presented in a recital at Xenia Central High School.

Miss McDonnell took her first vocal lessons from Sister Maria Gratia and has been a pupil of Grant O'Dell, of Dayton and New York, for the last three years. She is a member of the Xenia Woman's Music Club and was selected by that organization to represent Xenia and Greene County in the radio audition a week ago.

The song with which Miss McDonnell won the audition was a selection from Verdi sung in the original Italian, "Pace, Pace, Mio Mio." Her sister, Miss Mary McDonnell, played the piano accompaniment for the test.

Miss McDonnell is a stenographer employed by The Buckeye Press.

Howard Waugh, Zanesville, baritone, was also chosen as a winner of the southern Ohio contest, the winners being announced by Ellis Snyder, Capital University, judge of the contest.

BUCKLEY TO START WEDNESDAY TO BEGIN ATLANTA SENTENCE

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—Bert B. Buckley, 55, former state treasurer, who is under sentence to serve two and a half years in the Atlanta penitentiary as the outgrowth of his conviction on attempted bribery and liquor conspiracy charges, will probably leave for the southern federal prison tomorrow. It was decided today.

The circuit court of appeals here, which last month refused him a new trial, set aside the stay of execution it had granted Buckley, pending an appeal, and issued a mandate ordering Buckley to surrender to federal authorities tomorrow.

Court officials issued the mandate at Buckley's own request as he is apparently anxious to "get the term over with."

Arrangements for his transportation have been made.

Buckley was convicted on the bribery charges following his connection with the Cincinnati "brewery bribery" scandal.

RADIO BRINGS NEWS OF LOST MINING GROUP

Explorers Are Safe At Cambridge Bay Is Reported

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 5.—With receipt of a radio message from Bathurst stating the lost McAlpine party of eight mine explorers was safe in the Arctic region at Cambridge Bay, efforts to get the party back to civilization started today.

Four airplanes, searching the sub-arctic region since the party was reported missing more than two months ago, may be sent to the trading post to bring back the men.

The message, received at offices of Dominion explorers from a Pontine radio operator at Bathurst, read: "Fort St. James station, KJOA, Haven, King William Island, advises me at 10 a. m. mountain time that McAlpine party arrived safely at Cambridge Bay, across the ice from Dease Point."

News that Col. C. D. H. McAlpine, millionaire Toronto mining man and his party of explorers are safe was radioed from a Hudson Bay steamer at Cambridge Bay and caught by the government radio station at Fort Churchill, Manitoba, whence it was relayed to this point.

With food for barely one month, the eight geologists spent since September 8 marooned at some lonely Arctic point.

ELEVEN JURORS TO DECIDE VERDICT

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 5.—Only eleven jurors are sitting in the trial of the Raven Coal Company's suit against the Powhatan Mining Company in the Common Pleas Court here. This is unprecedented locally.

Mrs. Ida Bloom, one of the jurors, received word that her brother had died in Bridgeport and she asked to be excused. By agreement of both counsel, her request was granted, the disposition of the suit therefore being in the hands of eleven men and women.

JUST LONGED FOR JAIL

Youth Agrees To Attend School If Allowed To Live With Prisoners

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 5.—Eleven-year-old Genne Gower didn't like school and he didn't like to live in the country home where he was a ward. That was three months ago.

Genne was a constant worry to the home officials. He repeatedly tried to escape and punishment just made him more desperate. He wouldn't go to school and when he was forced into the classroom he remained sullen and refused to pay attention.

Finally, county officials hit on a novel solution, a solution which has no parallel in the history of this county.

Genne and the school officials signed a peace treaty. The officials agreed to allow Genne to live in the county jail.

And the boy kept his word. He went to school regularly but during the hours he was not in class, he lived at the county jail just like the other prisoners.

That came to an end today, however. Genne's father at Middletown was remarried and has sent for the boy to come to his new home.

MAJORITY OF VOTES NEEDED; ELECTION ENDS HOT CAMPAIGN

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—Ohioans today are deciding the fate of a proposed tax limitation amendment to the constitution of the Buckeye state.

This proposal, if adopted, will abolish the uniform rule of taxation and will authorize the state legislature to determine upon a classification of tangible and intangible property for taxation purposes.

At the polls today, throughout Ohio, municipal, village, township and school district officials are being selected. Various local issues, including proposed tax levies, bond issues, charter amendments and rate ordinances, are being disposed of.

Polls opened at 6:30 a. m. in ninety-two cities, 750 villages, 1,300 townships and 2,000 school districts. Voting will end at 6:30 p. m.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown has arranged for tabulations, at his office tonight, of the returns on votes cast for and against the taxation proposal. A bare majority of the votes cast for or against it will ratify, or defeat, the proposed amendment.

Election officials predict that a relatively high vote will be cast.

Today's election terminates a vigorous campaign waged during the past several weeks by friends and foes of the taxation proposal.

The effect of the adoption of the proposed amendment would be to write into the state constitution the 15-mill tax limitation amendment, now decreed by law affecting real estate, and to authorize the state legislature to classify all forms of personal property and to fix varying rates of taxation for the different classes of property.

Numerous prominent Ohioans publicly endorsed the proposed amendment while members of thirteen state organizations have actively campaigned for it. Former Governor V. Donahoe, union labor leaders and members of the uniform tax league are among the more prominent opponents of the proposal.

Organizations supporting it include: The All-Ohio Tax League, Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, Ohio Grange, Ohio Tax Association, Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Ohio Hotel Men's Association, Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants, and Ohio real estate boards.

Friends of the proposal argue that it will lower the tax on real estate by reason of the collection of taxes on money, bonds and other intangible property which, heretofore, has escaped taxation.

Opponents contend that, if the proposal is adopted, intangibles will continue to escape taxation and that taxes to be paid by the wage-workers on their homes and by salaried executives of the state will be boosted as a result of "an unchecked amount" of bond issues and extra tax levies, in view of the provision that the 15-mill limitation could then be exceeded by a vote of the people.

Today is the fifth time that a proposed classification taxation amendment to the state constitution has been submitted at the Ohio polls. Today, however, is the first time that such a proposal has been the sole statewide issue at an Ohio election.

ALMEE McPHERSON AND MOTHER PATCH UP FAMILY TROUBLE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 5.—Mrs. Almee Temple McPherson, noted evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, have "made up." That a reconciliation had been effected was disclosed today after Mrs. McPherson said her mother would resume her work at Angelus temple. Following the split between mother and daughter last year, Mrs. Kennedy went to the northwest, and while there, made assertions which resulted in the filing of impeachment proceedings against Judge Carlos S. Hardy, whose acceptance of a $2,500 "love offering" from Mrs. McPherson resulted in charges of which he was subsequently cleared.

Although the county grand jury still is investigating charges that Mrs. McPherson misappropriated funds belonging to her church, she was granted permission to make a trip to the northwest.

A special session of the jury is scheduled next week to consider whether the evangelist should be indicted. Several days ago she appeared before the jurors and turned temple records over to them in response to a summons.

ODD FELLOWS WILL HOLD ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION HERE

A tableaux of the old time lodge meetings will be presented by members of the I. O. O. F. Lodge Thursday evening when it holds its anniversary meeting. It was decided by the committee in charge, Monday evening.

Properties used many years ago will be shown and characters of the early day will be depicted. Rebekah Lodge will have a meeting of women of fifty or more years ago, with appropriate costume. Camp Lodge will also present a stunt.

The Good Fellowship Club which was recently organized, will present some ideas of its purposes.

An orchestra has been obtained and in addition to short talks there will be recognition of other fraternal orders of Xenia which have been invited to send representatives to the anniversary meeting. The orchestra will play dance music following the program. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

HEALTH LEAGUE TO MEET HERE FRIDAY

The Rev. Carl White of Yellow Springs, chairman of the Greene County Health League, is calling an important meeting of the league, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the Court House.

A state representative of the Christian Seal Sale will be present and deliver an address concerning the Seal Sale.

The meeting is open to any one interested in the tubercular question. The funds received from this sale are used to carry on the work of lowering the tubercular death rate in the county and to employ Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, county health nurse. A large attendance is desired at this meeting.

YELLOW SPRINGS TO BENEFIT FROM LOWER ELECTRIC RATES

An electric lighting rate proposal, which has been in existence for the last ten years and which may mean a saving of about $100 a month is in prospect for Yellow Springs village, it was revealed Tuesday.

Bids for furnishing the village with electric current for the next ten years were submitted by both Antioch College and The Dayton Power and Light Co. to the village further consideration of the bids no contract will be awarded until the next council meeting assigned for Tuesday night, November 12.

The ten-year contract of the Dayton company under which the village has been paying about $1,200 a month for power expires December 31 and a renewal is sought by the company.

However, the bidding became competitive through an offer of Antioch College to provide the village with electricity for both commercial and domestic use at cost. The college is at present buying its current from the village, which has its own distribution plant, but installation of equipment for the manufacture of electric energy is now nearing completion at Antioch.

The old rate paid by the village to the Dayton company was three cents per kilowatt hour for the first 3,000 hours, two and three-fourth cents for the next 3,000 hours and two and one-half cents for all power in excess of 6,000 kilowatt hours.

Antioch, according to members of the council, proposes to furnish electricity at a cost not exceeding two cents per kilowatt hour and the new rate proposed by the Dayton company is also considerably below the old rate, it is said.

Regardless of which offer is accepted, the rate for the village is expected to be a reduction of at least one-third from the present rate. In that event a saving of about $400 a month would be the result, it is announced.

The Dayton Power and Light Co. has been supplying Yellow Springs with current for the last twelve years ever since it took over the franchise of the old Cedarville Light Co.

Twelve Xenia Boy Scout officials attended a meeting of Scout executives of Tecumseh Council, held Monday night at the Presbyterian Church in Springfield, at which H. Hahn, Columbus, regional field executive, outlined an interesting program of activities. The program was adopted and the Scoutmasters of each troop received their instructions.

Scout officials, among them Ernest Blackburn, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 45, Xenia, who completed their course in the recent school of instruction, were awarded diplomas. Troop No. 45 was represented at the meeting by a full attendance of its officers.

Xenia Scout officials who were present at the meeting included: E. A. Roberts, of Troop No. 40; R. H. Kingsbury, of Troop No. 41; Ernest Blackburn, Paul McFarland, Carl Pramer, H. K. Snyder, John Vandervoort, C. F. Neillage and the Rev. Adrian Leibold, of Troop No. 45; Prof. O. K. Probasco, Kenneth Probasco and J. R. Benjamin, of Troop No. 62, the O. S. and S. O. Home.

The right way to redye Finest Silks

TEXTILE manufacturers always use special dyes for silk or wool. They know that is the only way to secure the most perfect results. The makers of Diamond Dyes are the first to enable home users to follow this plan.

Next time you want to dye some of your more valuable articles of pure silk or wool, try the special Diamond Dyes in the blue package. They will give these materials clearer, more brilliant colors, with greater depth and permanence than any "all purpose" dye.

These special Diamond Dyes are just as easy to use as ordinary dyes. Like the white package Diamond Dyes, they contain the highest quality anilines money can buy. That's what makes them go on so smoothly and evenly, without spotting or streaking. That's the secret of their brilliance; their resistance to sunlight, wear, and washing.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the highest quality dye prepared for general use. It will dye, or tint, silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon (artificial silk), or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye for silk or wool only—with it you can dye your valuable articles of pure silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk or wool. Your dealer has both packages.

INDICATE HEAVIER VOTE CAST TUESDAY THAN WAS EXPECTED

Despite previous indications of an apparent lack of interest in any of the issues at stake, Xenians were flocking to the polls at the general election Tuesday in larger numbers than had been anticipated, indicating that a heavy vote was being cast.

Following a survey of the fourteen city precincts made by officials of the Greene County Board of Elections late Tuesday morning, the prediction was made that the total vote cast in Xenia city would be between 2,500 and 3,000.

The vote in the morning averaged between thirty and forty for every precinct. A later survey at 12:30 p. m. disclosed that 114 votes had been recorded in precinct 5, the heaviest voting precinct in the city; seventy-six in precinct 8, twenty-eight in Xenia Twp. north

REMODEL ROOM FOR BARBER SHOP HERE IN ALLEN BUILDING

A vacant store room in the Allen Bldg., at 6 S. Detroit St., formerly occupied by the Geyer book shop, is to be remodeled and partitioned off into two store rooms for occupancy of one-half by the Coates barber shop, which will vacate its present location at 4 S. Detroit St., in the same building.

Work of making interior and exterior alterations to the vacant store room, which has been unoccupied for the last nine months, will be started Wednesday by McCarran Bros., Xenia firm, which received the contract.

The room will be partitioned into two store rooms, giving each a frontage of about eleven feet and a depth of forty-two feet. New store fronts are also planned and the contracting work is expected to be completed by January 1.

The barber shop, which has been operated at 4 S. Detroit St. for the last twenty-two years will occupy

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

OUT OF THE HEART—A good man out of the good treasure of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil, for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.—Luke 6:45.

A SEARCHING QUESTION—And why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?—Luke 6:46.

CHURCH AND COTTON MILLS

A member of the Church League for Industrial Democracy, addressing a conference on the southern textile industry under the auspices of the Russell Sage foundation in New York, charges that the churches in the industrially disturbed sections of North Carolina are "undoubtedly owned and controlled by the mill owners," and that the clergy are "the moral police of the industrial overlords." A similar charge was brought against the church in Great Britain, at the time of the Chartist movement. The accusation reflects so seriously upon the machinery of Christianity that Americans are not likely to accept it, when directed against the church in North Carolina, without more proof than appears to have been adduced to date.

The connection of the Christian church with the affairs of this world has not been consistent throughout its history. At first the church was communistic. A few centuries later it was the chief bulwark of political power in Europe, a status which it defended by the scriptural injunction to render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's. At a still later date it was accused in Great Britain of preaching obedience to industrial, as well as to political overlords, as an antidote to the industrial ferment created by the introduction of the factory system. The accusers could point to at least one occasion on which parliament, asked for unemployment relief, voted money to open new churches instead. The reaction to this sort of thing, within the church itself, was Christian socialism," among whose most vigorous and articulate expounders was Charles Kingsley, at one time chaplain to Queen Victoria. The Church League for Industrial Democracy presumably is thinking along the same lines.

As an internal reform, a movement of this sort has much to commend it. As an attempt to solve industrial problems by religious formulas it would be open to challenge. The duty of the church is to "preach Christ and Him crucified," with equal clarity and force to all classes of men. There cannot be one doctrine for the master and another for the servant. The interference of church agencies directly in industrial matters would be as dangerous as their interference in political matters always has been. The essence of religion is mystery. There is nothing mysterious about wages and working conditions. They are of the earth earthy. The enlistment of the church's peculiar influence over the minds of men in behalf of one party to the rivalry between capital and labor, would be as unfortunate for the church itself and for the body politic and economic, as would be its enlistment under the standard of the other.

It's a good thing for society that the crooks of the thrillers are not so clever in real life and the detectives so dumb.

Query for today: Why is it that women try so hard to imitate their brothers? For instance, as to cigarettes, clothes, hair and cussing, not to mention liquor.

So many things are alleged to keep the doctor away, eating apples, swatting flies, exercise, deep breathing, etc., that it's a wonder the physicians make enough for cigarette money.

A hint to Postmaster General Brown: The way to reduce the postal deficit is not necessarily an increase in rates, but a reduction of ?????? privilege, and a careful investigation of the cost of handling the parcel post business.

WORK AND STUDY

The president of an Indiana college has set up a fountain pen factory. Students are paid to work part time in the factory and study the rest of the time. It's an all year round college, so students can take fewer hours, work outside, and still get through in four years or less. This sort of thing appeals to those boys and girls who realize they don't go to school merely to join a fraternity and learn how to jump a hurdle. This college, by the way, according to the dispatches, is Oakland City college at Oakland City, Ind.

Berea college in Kentucky, and Antioch in Ohio, are two schools, also, where the value of combining work with lessons has been proved. It's an old thought that all work and no play is bad, but the average American college will have to change its ways mightily before the proportion between work and play even gets to be fifty-fifty.

READY TO GIVE

Few folks are naturally "tight." They are mostly generous. When they do not give liberally, or at least fairly well, it is usually because reasons for giving have not been well presented. They have not been sold on the usefulness of a project. There is money enough and to spare in the pockets of thousands, but intelligent men have to be shown. Youngstown, O., had a campaign for a new Y. M. C. A. building the other day. When a thousand citizens were called to a dinner which was to start the campaign, a committee which had been eating on a few folks of wealth and plenty suddenly reported that more than a million dollars had been subscribed and the campaign was over before it started.

Youngstown is not different from other cities. There are men generous and ready to do their part in every American town. But they must be approached with sincerity on a proposition that has merit.

IN GERMANY

A dispatch from Germany says the economic situation of the German middle and working classes is slowly improving. Bank deposits are steadily increasing. This tells the story. Even at that, the bank deposits are only 41 per cent of the pre-war total. The Germans are diligent, hardworking, thoughtful. It may not be with a rush, but they are coming back steadily and surely.

ERA OF INTERNATIONAL GOOD WILL PREDICTED AS RESULT OF RADIO

By CHARLES CURTIS
Vice President of the United States (Charles Curtis was born at N. Topeka, Kas., Jan. 25, 1880. He was educated in the common schools. Admitted to the bar in 1891, he has practiced law at Topeka since. From 1893 to 1909 he was a member of congress. He was elected to the United States senate in 1907, was re-elected in 1915 and returned two terms. Last spring he resigned to become vice president. He is a Republican.)

The possibilities of international broadcasting, the interchange of radio programs between America, England, France, Germany, and other countries of the world is established; its full benefits will be felt in the not far distant future. It will help us realize that when we speak of the other nations of the world we are really speaking of individuals much like ourselves. It will lead us to the day of the international program, for I know that when that time comes a new era will dawn.

It was less than 10 years ago that radio was first introduced to the public of the United States. Most of you remember the early days of broadcasting; the limited and unsatisfactory entertainment; the crude, home-made sets.

What a change has taken place! We have seen the evolution of radio from a novelty, a toy, a fad, into a luxury, and thence into a necessity of our daily life; it is an epic of modern business growth. Even in the United States, where we are becoming accustomed to rapid industrial growth and advancement this progress is breathtaking. And yet radio is still in its infancy with greater developments still to come.

We are hearing much these days to the effect that modern inventions are destroying American homelife. This is not true of radio. It holds a unique place in that it is returning us to our firesides, bringing to the home the best in entertainment and educational information.

In radio broadcasting's first few years of existence, entertainment was paramount. While I believe that entertainment always will be paramount in radio programs, yet I also believe that radio is an indispensable medium for dissemination of timely information and a means of instruction on topics of general interest.

Before the advent of radio, those to whom you have entrusted the business of government made public addresses about their duties, but they were formal speeches made by visible persons to large audiences present in person.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Massage has a more prominent place today in the field of beauty culture than ever before, although it has always been important. Massage is now used for reducing, and in its more gentle forms, for the removal and prevention of signs of age on the face and throat. It is used for curing dandruff and itching of the scalp healthy. Massage is also used on the hands and even on the feet to strengthen the muscles supporting the arch. In fact, I consider the curative value of massage to be so great, that I shall devote several articles to this subject.

In massaging the face, the greatest care has to be exercised, as the muscles are sensitive and responsive, and therefore easily stretched. So facial massage must be exceedingly gentle. I cannot caution you enough against touching your fingers to your face until you have enough knowledge to proceed correctly. For every time you touch your face you are adding or detracting from your looks. The forms of massage which I shall give you are very simple and you can all master their technique with a little practice.

All massage can be largely subdivided into three kinds—stroking, patting and hacking. This last is only used on the more fleshy parts of the body for reduction purposes. Before attempting to touch the face or throat, you must learn the natural trend of the muscles, since your massage must follow this direction. This is the fundamental rule of correct massage and never changes. The skin around the eyes is particularly delicate, and not even stroking should be used. A gentle pat is especially essential in this area.

One good rule to remember is that massage for young people can be fairly vigorous, while massage for older people must be less strenuous.

In my subsequent articles I shall give in detail directions for massaging the face, throat, scalp, hands and the area around the eyes. Many of you will find these simple massage exercises extremely soothing and certainly beneficial if pursued regularly.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Ask anyone, "Who are the nine members of the United States supreme court?"

Almost invariably he will start briskly with "William Howard Taft," follow readily with "Oliver Wendell Holmes," probably get safely past "Louis D. Brandeis," and then he will begin to have to scratch his head. "Harlan F. Stone," will be fourth on his list in a plurality of cases. After a little thought, maybe he will recall a couple more names. He will remember the others as soon as they are mentioned to him but the chances are that the whole nine will be too much for him, unaided. The last two or three will make him rack his brain, at any rate.

Moreover, while the subject of your experiment will reel off "William Howard Taft," "Oliver Wendell Holmes" and "Louis D. Brandeis" in just that order nearly every time you try, the remaining half dozen will come to his mind here and there.

That is, after Associate Justice Brandeis' name, the rest will vary in order of precedence, experiment except for a slight preponderance in favor of Associate Justice Stone. Try it for yourself.

Of course it must be tried on folk who have a little acquaintance with the names of public men. I quite appreciate that there are plenty who could not get beyond Chief Justice Taft's—perhaps some that would not be sure of him.

A modicum of enlightenment in the subject is essential, or the test will not work at all. Admitting that much, the result is about 95 per cent a certainty.

IS IT NOT CURIOUS?

No. I think not.

William Howard Taft is chief justice. He is also former president. It is natural to his first on him. If it were not for his titular primacy on the bench and his expresidential prestige, and maybe the long career as a cabinet member, governor-general and what not with which he preceded it, I doubt whether he would stand out any more conspicuously in the supreme court than Associate Justice Sanford.

If all the justices were on a level without any particular chief, there is no question in my mind that Justice Holmes would be just as invariably first, as he is now second, on the popular list.

Justice Holmes is noticeable by reason of being a great man.

So is Justice Brandeis. It may be he is as great as Justice Holmes.

Justice Holmes is much Justice Brandeis' senior—by 15 years in point of age; by 14 years in point of service. Perhaps that is why his name nearly always leads Justice Brandeis' when the question is asked, "Who are the members of the U. S. Supreme court?" Perhaps, too Justice Holmes has a shade the best of it because bookish people at least recollect his name as his literary father's before him.

Does this account for Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justice Holmes and Brandeis?

It does to my satisfaction, anyhow.

As for the rest—a mediocre sextet, if anybody asks me.

Here they have, among only nine of them, a power equal to the president's, or the entire 531 members of the senate and the house of representatives combined, one of three great branches of the government—folk speak of the supreme court with bated breath as if it were practically of divine origin.

And it strains the average well-informed American's memory to call the roll of the judges' names—minus three.

Justice Stone?

Oh, well, he was the latest appointee, and is not quite forgotten yet, on the bench.

He goes fishing with President Hoover, besides.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

LUNCHEON

Potato Soup with Croutons
Celery Baked Apples
Toasted Cheese Sandwiches
Milk or Tea

Here is a good luncheon menu for adults or children, although very little children would not, of course, be given the toasted cheese sandwiches. Plain toast—preferably whole wheat toast—would be given them with the baked apple.

Today's Recipes

Potato Soup—Three potatoes, one onion, one stalk of celery. Cook in a little water until soft, then strain through a wire strainer. Melt one tablespoon butter in a saucepan, add one tablespoon flour, mix smooth and gradually add one pint of milk. Add the potato mixture, season and let come to a boil. Serves three.

Croutons—To make croutons quickly, cut eight slices of bread, and butter on both sides. Cube and turn into a pan and brown in the oven a few minutes. When crisp and brown, serve with the potato soup.

Suggestions

Novel Sandwich When serving sandwiches, be it when you are entertaining or for Sunday evening supper, make them as attractive as possible. For instance, slice a long loaf of white bread lengthwise; cut off crust, then cut each long slice into thirds. Cut a bit off the corners on one end to make these corners slanting.

Spread the bread with butter, then with cream cheese; place a sprig of watercress on center of bread so the leaves will extend beyond the bread, then begin in one corner and roll the bread cornucopia fashion. The cream will protrude from the top of cornucopia. Parsley may be substituted for the watercress if preferred.

If a cloth is wrung out of hot water and wrapped around the sandwiches for about 20 minutes the sandwich will retain its shape and not unroll.

Two of these cornucopias placed on a plate with a few pickles and olives, or a slice of tomato on each side, may be served to each guest and will look very appetizing.

How to Wash Silk

Silk manufacturers have given considerable attention to the matter of dyeing their products in such a way that they can be washed. While it has been found possible to use certain dyes that will withstand high temperatures, the silk itself suffers if put into too hot water. Both colors and fabric come out best when lukewarm water is used for washing.

Use lukewarm and neutral soaps. Do not rub hard. Squeeze and work the garments in the suds. Do not twist the fabric. Rinse thoroughly in water of the same temperature, and remove the water finally by squeezing and patting between dry towels. Dry as quickly as possible, but never in the sun. Silk hose should not be ironed, and many other knit garments do not need pressing. For crepe de chine and other woven silks, use a warm, but not hot, iron, and protect the fabric with cheesecloth. The fabric should be evenly damp, but not wet. To keep pounce silk from spotting, iron it dry.

Shake 'Em Crosswise In shaking rugs if you hold the rug so as to shake it crosswise instead of lengthwise, the hem will stay in longer and it will not whip the ends apart or cause it to unravel.

Strolling after Stagg, Peter Stagg, cried he, unliking his arm from the beetle's claw. "I have only two feet, you know, and they will not keep step with your six," Stagg nodded.

"Go it alone, if you want to," said he. "I noticed that you were tumbling about a bit, but you didn't hurt me at all."

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Cancer
"Does cancer occur the second time in the same place?"
"MRS. T."

No, not necessarily, Mrs. T., if it has been removed or destroyed before the cancer cells are distributed throughout the body, and if all the local cancer cells are removed or destroyed at the time of the treatment.

We do not yet know the cause of cancer. There is some biological-chemical change in the tissues, coupled in certain instances with chronic irritations. You should see that your diet is well balanced and your tissue fluids have good circulation, through the use of your muscles—in other words, a needed amount of physical exercise. You should keep in touch with your surgeon.

We have articles on Balanced Diet and the Tummy Ten exercises which you may have by following column rules. If you are interested in some literature on cancer, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West 43d Street, New York City.

B.—In 100 calories of buttermilk and skim milk (10 ounces), approximately 35 of the calories are protein and 55 are carbohydrates (starches and sugars) and the balance fat. Ten ounces of whole milk is 200 calories, with approximately the same number of protein and carbohydrate calories, and with many more calories of fat, on account of the cream.

In the instance you spoke of, the printing of 25 C. of protein in 100 calories of buttermilk must have been a typographical error.

"Will you please tell me what harm, if any, there may be in eating coffee beans? I have had this habit for many years. Mrs. A."

It would depend upon how many coffee beans you ate, Mrs. A., and your individual susceptibility to caffeine. People differ in this markedly.

I have read that about 50 coffee beans would give a grain of caffeine, but it seems to me that for I think that number, ground, would make more than one tablespoon of the coffee, the amount usually used to make a cupful of coffee. An ordinary cup of coffee has from two to four grains of caffeine, depending upon its strength. (Two to four grains is a medicinal dose for a stimulant.)

There is another principle in coffee that may be harmful and that is tannic acid, and no doubt in eating the whole bean, the full strength of the tannic acid would be taken.

Where excess amounts of caffeine are taken in the form of tea, coffee and cola drinks, there is no doubt that a chronic poisoning is produced. Among the symptoms are dyspepsia, succeeded by nervousness, restlessness and excitement, tremor, disturbed sleep, lack of appetite, headache, dizziness, palpitation, constipation and hysterical disturbances. (M. J. Guigan.)

I was interested to find in one of my textbooks that when tea and coffee first became popular, it was urged that the new beverages reduced the consumption of alcohol. One Poulson, in 1728, said: "Where there is no other use in tea and coffee, they are nevertheless useful in that they have caused drunkenness, which was formerly so prevalent, to go out of fashion. Our wives and daughters can now pay ten visits in one morning, and yet come home quite sober."

What to do, what to do?

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I'm in love with a man who doesn't even know I exist. I've never met him, but I have been places where he has been. I can't sleep, and I've lost weight rapidly."

"My mother says I'm working too hard. My doctor told me the same thing, and that I would have a nervous breakdown if I didn't have a rest."

"I'm content just to sit and watch him. I don't know of any way to get acquainted with him. Oh, Virginia, won't you please help me?"

"BROKEN HEARTED SALLY."

You're in a bad way, old dear. It's a great pity I can't introduce the man to you, because you'd probably find him not at all what your imagination pictures, and you'd be so disappointed you'd recover quickly from your imaginary state of love sickness.

You're in an abnormal state of mind, and had better get some form of good physical exercise, like swimming, dancing, hiking, gymnastics, to stimulate your circulation and wash the cobwebs out of that sentimental mind of yours. A psychologist would do you good, and might tell you some fundamental truths about your state of mind that would not make you quite so proud of it.

If you are really working hard enough to cause a breakdown—good, honest work seldom does this, however—you should stop it. If, of course, but if its imaginary love for this man you don't know, throw your shoulders back, inhale the cool, fresh autumn air, and make up your mind you are going to be a healthy, modern young woman, not a sickly sentimentalist.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am so unhappy. I am 19 years old. Two years ago I met a nice fellow. He loved me so much and wanted me to go steady, but I wouldn't. He was so jealous."

"A year ago I started going steady with him and now I love him dearly, and he says he doesn't see how I can love him when I went with other fellows last summer. He quit me and is going with another girl. Oh, please help me to win him back."

"A BROKEN HEARTED BLONDE."

"I'm afraid it can't be done, dear. His love couldn't have been very deep or he wouldn't have gotten over it so soon. He must be rather small and petty. He have gone with you long enough to win your love and then quit."

I suppose he thinks he is punishing you.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

MRS. ROSE STICKS TO HER STORY

The band did its level best to play a merry tune. However, the music was so jerky that Peter, marching with his arm linked in Stagg Beetle's claw, found it hard to keep in step. He trod on Stagg's claws and Stagg stepped on his toes and at last the boy could stand it no longer.

"Do let me walk by myself, Stagg," cried he, unliking his arm from the beetle's claw. "I have only two feet, you know, and they will not keep step with your six," Stagg nodded.

"Go it alone, if you want to," said he. "I noticed that you were tumbling about a bit, but you didn't hurt me at all."

On marched Stagg Beetle, Peter strolling after him, chucking to himself as he watched the beetles solemnly marking time with their feelers, as they shuffled along to the rosethush, where, at last, they came to a halt. All the Mrs.

Beetles in the neighborhood must have heard of Mrs. Rose's accident, for there they all were, gathered about the rosethush. Several of the ladies were wearing their aprons and dust caps, and one of them had rushed out of her house in such a hurry she had forgotten to lay aside her broom. Another carried a tiny mop over her shoulder, as though it had been a gun. Mrs. Rose, herself, had quite gotten over her fright, and was busily engaged in dusting the petals of the rosebush. Nor did she cease her labors the while she repeated the story of her adventures in a shrill voice.

Peter would have liked to have looked longer at the ladies, but suddenly he caught sight of a small beetle spinning around on its head in the garden path. The boy had just come to the conclusion the small beetle had gone mad, when Lady Bird planned the obliging little fellow was digging a starting point for the racers to leave from.

In the six years that the annual Wilberforce-West Virginia State College Thanksgiving Day football game have been staged other than on either school's gridiron, the contests have been promoted jointly by the two institutions four times.

The seventh playing of the Turkey Day classic November 28 brings it back to its original site and the rival schools are sharing equally the responsibility of its promotion.

Twice the promoter-guarantee plan has been tried, but in either instance was the result satisfactory to all parties concerned. This plan of staging the game this fall was offered by interested groups in Cleveland, Detroit and Pittsburgh. However, after weeks of uncertainty and conferences by Dr. J. Aubrey Lane, of Wilberforce, with Dr. J. H. Wilson, representing the East Side Chamber of Commerce, and Daniel Ferguson, representing West Virginia, Columbus was definitely decided upon as the playing site.

When it became generally known that school opinion was adverse to the promoter-guarantee plan, the East Side Chamber of Commerce gladly relinquished its option on Neil Park to the rival schools and in addition has guaranteed a liberal sum to help defray expenses in bringing the game to Columbus.

Much favorable comment was aroused among the respective student bodies and alumnae over this arrangement and the schools are working to make it a success.

W. C. T. Ayres, president of the Ayres Publicity Agency, Columbus, former well known Xenian, has been engaged to handle all local publicity in connection with the game.

The business of manufacturing touchdowns, which has been a booming one with opponents of Xenia Central High School grid- ders this season, has experienced a sharp drop in production as far as the Buccaneers are concerned. In six games so far this fall, the Bucs have put over two touchdowns for thirteen points against a total of 122 points rolled up by opposing teams.

The Bucs, however, exhibited heretofore concealed defensive power last Friday in holding Greenville to a 6 to 0 score. When it is considered that earlier in the season Greenville lost to the powerful Roy High eleven by only a 9 to 6 margin, the showing of Xenia grid- ders against Greenville was a distinct improvement over preceding games.

Even Coach "Pinkie" Wilson remarked that he was more satisfied with the performance of his boys than in any previous game this year, the defensive work of Thompson, Frazer, Kinsey, Spahr, Hardy, Billmyre and others being particularly good.

If continued improvement can be shown against Troy Thursday afternoon the Trojans may be held to a lower score than expected.

Coach Walter "Pinkie" Wilson is introduced this week as a for- caster of football games and is willing to risk his reputation as a football expert by predicting the result of twenty important con- tests on Saturday's menu. Here are "Pinkie's" selections:

Dartmouth to beat Brown.
Wisconsin to beat Chicago.
Columbia to beat Columbia.
Cornell to beat West Reserve.
Ohio U. to beat Denison.
Army to beat Illinois.
Iowa to beat Minnesota.
Miami to beat Oberlin.
Michigan to beat Harvard.
Georgia to beat New York U.
Notre Dame to beat Drake.
Ohio State to beat Northwestern.
Pennsylvania to beat Penn State.
Pittsburgh to beat Wash. and Jeff.
Purdue to beat Mississippi.
St. Xavier to beat Dayton.
Navy to beat Georgetown.
Detroit to beat West Virginia.
Ohio Wesleyan to beat Witten- berg.
Yale to beat Maryland.

PAROLED FROM JAIL ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Amiel Bent, 32, colored, 44 Tay- lor St., indigent prisoner in the County Jail, has been granted a parole by County Commissioners. Bent was fined $1,000 and costs on a conviction for possessing liquor by Mayor Karl R. Babb September 12 and was committed to jail for failure to pay the assessment. The parole was authorized on the con- dition Bent pays the fine and costs at the rate of $5 a month, starting December 16.

Children Like this Safe Prescription

COUGHS AND SORE THROAT RELIEVED ALMOST INSTANTLY
Stop children's coughs and sore throats before these ailments lead to dangerous ills. Thoxine, a doc- tor's prescription, now assures relief within 15 minutes to children as well as adults without the dan- ger in the use of patent medicines containing harmful drugs.

Thoxine works on a different principle, goes direct to the source of trouble and relieves the irritation which causes the coughing and sore throat. Ideal for children be- cause it is safe and does not have a usual "nasty-medicine" taste. No gagging. Just ask for Thoxine, put up ready for use in 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Money back if not relieved. All Drugists.

WILBERFORCE PLAYS HOWARD ELEVEN IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Wilberforce University "Bul- dogs" will invade Washington, D. C. Saturday for another intersec- tional football game with the much-defeated Howard University

Football News

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Undis- mayed by the outcome of the Georgetown game and determined to vindicate itself in the remaining games on the schedule, New York University's violet grid squad to- day continued its drive in prepara- tion for Georgia.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Following a full day's rest, Yale's varsity squad today resumed prac- tice, this time for Maryland. The injury of Hall and Wilson, quar- terbacks, has started a general search of the squad for a field general to assist Booth.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—The Harvard varsity was today en- gage in a long workout against Michigan plays with the exception of Art Huguley, one of the two best kickers on the squad, Coach Horween will have every player in shape when the crimson tackles Michigan at Ann Arbor on Satur- day.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 5.—With Al Marsters in the infirmary and the whole squad footsore and weary as a result of the Yale game, Dart- mouth today resumed football prac- tice. Tommy Longnecker will take over the duties of Marsters while the green ace is recuperating.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—With a day of limbering up after the Dakota game behind them, army players today resumed strenu- ous practice. The major portion of yesterday's drill was devoted to kicking and passing, with Cagle and Carver doing most of the ball- flinging.

BEREA, O., Nov. 5.—Practice in Baldwin Wallace's football camp was centered on developing a scor- ing punch and that is expected to be the menu for the remainder of the week. The Bereans failed to score in their tie with Ohio North- ern Saturday and Coach Watts promised that his squad would be in a better condition for the Otter- bein tilt.

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 5.—Fresh from their victory over Oberlin, Wooster College's gridiron machine was sent through a scrimmage yester- day. Coach Boles warned against over-confidence as the re- sult of the large Oberlin score.

GRANVILLE, O., Nov. 5.—Scrim- mage against a freshman team will be Denison's gridiron menu for the next three days in preparation for their Dad's day game with Ohio University Saturday.

ASHLAND, O., Nov. 5.—Ashland College grid-ders are priming them- selves for the coming Thiel tilt. A slight workout was the order of things yesterday and a hard scrim- mage against the varsity is on tap for this afternoon.

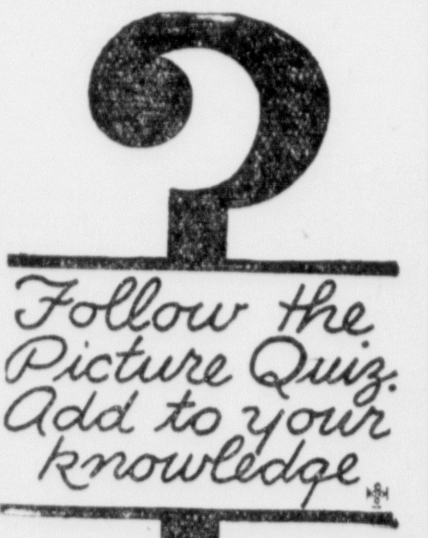

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—New plays were meted out to the St. Xavier Musketeers in a light prac- tice session yesterday. They meet Dayton Saturday and will be out for blood to avenge their defeat by Western Reserve.

OVERLIN, O., Nov. 5.—A crippled Oberlin team may take the field against the strong Miami University aggregation Saturday. Brooks and Butzberger, backfield men of no mean ability, are on the injured list and may not be in shape again for a week. Beattie, star punter and ball carrier is suf- fering from a sprained ankle.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 5.—A re- vamped Dayton Flyers backfield will meet St. Xavier Saturday. In an intensive signal drill yesterday, Cabrinha was barking the signals, Gowan and Lutz were at the halves and Marshall was in the fullback berth. Dayton looks forward to the St. Xavier tilt with confidence.

OXFORD, O., Nov. 5.—Miami University's moleskin warriors face a stiff week of practice following their defeat by Ohio University. They confidently expect to win their remaining games.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 5.—Wit- tenberg will dedicate its new $400, 000 gymnasium and field house Sat- urday when it meets Ohio Wesley- an and the stiff practice session shows that the Lutherans are going to do their best to send the Bat- tling Bishops home lamenting the fact they came to Springfield.

eleven, one of the university's tra- ditional athletic rivals.

Although the team of Coach Ver- dell has been trampled upon in every game it has played this sea- son, the "Bulldogs" are not over- confident as Howard has always had a faculty of being at its best against Wilberforce.

Comparative scores would indi- cate the Howard tilt should be just another practice encounter for Wilberforce before the annual Thanksgiving Day engagement with West Virginia State College. However, Coach Graves anticipates a hard struggle and is seeking to tighten up his defense this week in order that the final score will be indicative of the superiority of the Green and Gold grid-ders this sea- son.

FOUR KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 5.—Governor Manuel Caprio of the state of Agua Calientes and John Car- michael, an American pilot, were among four persons who were killed when a Mexico City-to-El Paso passenger airplane crashed in a remote section of the state of Mexico yesterday, it was learned here today.

The wreckage of the plane and the bodies of the four dead were found after an extensive search which was instituted when the plane failed to appear at its des- tination.

Governor Caprio, a former Mex- ican journalist, was on his way to El Paso on official business. Car- michael, the pilot of the plane, was 27 years of age. He bore a United States department of commerce license, numbered 3062.

MELLON TARGET OF BROOKHART ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—An ap- peal to President Hoover to re- move Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon while "placing a man who means business" in charge of prohibition enforcement featured an expose of liquor con- ditions today by Senator Brookhart (R. of Iowa, in the senate.

He held Mellon directly respon- sible for any failure in prohibition enforcement. The Iowan charged that Mellon had been offered $50, 000,000 for additional dry enforce- ment but had refused it.

The Iowan, however, asserted that prohibition conditions were greatly improved over the old sal- oon days.

Bowling Scores.

Changing the entire complexion of the Recreation League race, the champion Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team gave the cham- pionship aspirations of the Benrus Watch quinter a severe jolt by winning three straight games from the league leaders Monday night. Prior to the match the Benrus team had a lead of two full games. The triple defeat dropped the lead- ers into a tie with the Gr. Co. L. Co. with the possibility the Red Wing Co. may go into first place if it wins three games this week.

The winners had a three-game to- tal of 2,756. Peterson topped the lumber company with a series of 570. Smith led the losers with a 585 total. Box score:

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD EMPLOYE PLACED ON HONOR ROLL NOVEMBER 1

AFTER more than forty- seven years of continuous service, James Donovan, 66, Xenia, fuel station laborer, has retired from active service and his name was added to the Pennsylvania Railroad Roll of Honor November 1. He has been disabled on account of ill health since January 26 last year.

As a trackman Mr. Donovan recalled that he helped lay the first steel rail between Xenia and New Paris and that on the Springfield branch line the longest rails were in fifteen and eighteen inch lengths, two inches in height and were laid without angle bars on what were called chairs. Four spikes were driven in the ties at the ends of the rails to hold them together.

Mr. Donovan was born in County Cork, Ireland, October 20, 1863. Since coming to the United States, arriving at Philadelphia May 17, 1882, he has lived in Xenia all his life. He entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad May 25, 1882 as a section laborer, and after seventeen years of ser- vice in the M. and W. depart- ment was promoted to fore- man. His service in the M. and E. department dates from August 28, 1899.

TWO INJURED AS AUTO PLUNGES THROUGH GUARD RAIL OF BRIDGE

To have twice escaped death in two accidents which occurred a few minutes apart was the experience of three Xenians, two of whom were injured, however, in the second mishap, early Monday night.

Two of the three men were in- jured when a touring car said to have been driven by John Toner, 45, Xenia, crashed through an iron guard railing of a bridge on Cin- cinnati Ave., and plunged twenty-five feet to the shallow waters of Shawnee Creek below.

Toner sustained a broken right leg and Walter Heather, 46, also of Xenia, received a broken right col- lar bone and a fractured rib. A third companion, Harvey Riley, es- caped injury.

The three autoists were hauled ashore, the damaged auto pulled out of the creek and the injured pair taken to McClellan Hospital for treatment.

RACKET COMMITTEE BOASTS STATE ROAD MEETING IN XENIA

En route on a motor trip that will carry it over the entire route of the proposed Bulls-kix-Xenia highway Tuesday, the advertising or "racket committee" of the Blan- chester Chamber of Commerce stopped in Xenia early Tuesday morning and was greeted by a large number of representative Xenians interested in the proposal to have the historic trail improved as a state highway.

The tour of the Blanchester group is being made to stimulate interest along the route in a public hearing to be held at Blanchester Nov. 8. The demonstration will be conducted by the state highway department and arguments for and against the proposition to have the road included in the state highway system will be heard at that time.

The "racket committee" arrived in Xenia in three automobiles and its members were met at the De- troit St. entrance of the Court House by Prof. H. C. Aultman, president of the Bulls-kix-Xenia Highway Association, and other Xenians. Afterward the committee drove through the city and scat- tered handbills urging attendance at the Blanchester hearing.

Following its brief stay in Xenia, the committee continued its trip south along the trail to the Ohio River, expecting to reach its destination late Tuesday after making similar stops at villages all along the route.

Shortly before the accident, which occurred about 6:30 p. m., the auto in which the trio was rid- ing, was struck by the rear end of a Pennsylvania train which was backing across a Cincinnati Ave. crossing. After an examination of the car, the men drove on to the Shawnee Creek bridge. It is be- lieved the radius road of the steer- ing apparatus was damaged in the accident and refused to function, causing the machine to get out of control and plunge through the safety rail into the creek.

FLYING SCHOOL IS CAUSING INTEREST AMONG AIR-MINDED

Offices for the proposed Xenia Flying School being established in this city by Raymond Hanes and Clifford Cummings, both of Day- ton, were opened at 27 Green St., above Sutton's Music Store, Mon- day, and reports of interest being shown by Xenians indicate that the enrollment limit of twenty stu- dents for the course will be quickly reached.

Xenians sufficiently "air-minded" to want to learn how to fly them- selves, are being urged to enroll in the school as soon as possible be- cause only twenty applicants can be enrolled. For the convenience of all prospective students offices of the school will remain open un- til 8:30 p. m. each day.

The department of commerce re- quires that all pilots must have a ground school course, receiving both technical and practical in- struction in flying, before a pilot's license is issued to a student. The proposed course will therefore con- sist of aerodynamics, plane and motor construction, plane and motor controls, navigation, airplane design, rigging, assembling and other technical details which are essential to obtaining a pilot's li- cense.

The one objective of the Xenia Flying School, according to the Dayton airmen, is to provide the students with a thorough knowl- edge of all types of airplanes and their motors. The school will in- stall a Travelair biplane in a build- ing at the Robbins and Myers plant, Home Ave., Saturday for practical instruction work.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS

Editor, The Farm Journal

Written for Central Press

That part of the farm world that sells beef cattle, hogs and sheep to the meat packers is deeply interested in the outcome, at Washington, of the latest effort to get the famous "Packer Consent Decree" modified or abolished.

If this effort is successful, as the weight of farm opinion hopes it will be, it will bring to an end almost twenty years of agitation and legal warfare over the packing business. Perhaps the end will come even before you read these words.

The story of that war is too long to tell here. However, the outcome was that after many years of hostility to the packers, and attacks on them by farm organizations and political forces, the "Big Five" packing houses finally signed at Washington the "Consent Decree."

This was a voluntary agreement with the government, declared binding by the court, that the packers would stick closely to the meat business, would give up their interest in the public stockyards, would not go into the retail store business, and several other conditions. Now the packing houses have been asking the courts to relieve them of this agreement.

The court said, very properly, that the agreement was between the packers and the government, and that nothing could be done about it unless the government's legal division, the attorney general's office, also wanted the agreement changed or abolished.

The packers said, "Very well; please, Mr. Attorney General Mitchell, join with us in asking the court to end our agreement."

Mr. Mitchell, in turn, asked the opinion of the department of agriculture, and Secretary Hyde has been engaged in finding out the views of farm organizations and leaders, among whom, by the way, I had the honor of being consulted.

What will come of it, I do not know. But the general opinion of agriculture is that the "Consent Decree" is out of date, and in any case, much less necessary for the protection of the public than was thought at the time.

The final argument against it is that almost half the packing business, the many smaller packing houses of the country, are perfectly free to do all the things the "Big Five" are forbidden to do. That is certainly not just, and calls for a remedy.

Before mother would let her through she made her pay toll with the quarter she had bet that she would never see him again.

A minute later she was a blur of joyful happiness in Neil's arms.

"Oh, honey, you aren't mad at me, then?" she clung to him joyfully.

"Naw," he kissed her. "I got awful ashamed of myself for being such a baby."

She sighed with content and sat back.

"Oh, it doesn't matter now. I'm so happy to see you I could die. It's—it's been awfully lonely."

"Gosh, I thought you would be back in a week," he grinned. "I didn't even believe you'd ever go. How's tricks?"

She babbled to him about the store and her new life for a little while. He was taking in the street and the surroundings with eyes that showed their distaste.

"Criminy, what a dump of a block to live in," he said then. "What are you doing in this part of Philadelphia?"

"I can't afford anything better,"

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, after the death of her mother, secured a position at the hosiery counter in a Philadelphia store through the kindness of Kenessa Du Barry, an actress. She is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, corner newsboy. Her first day at the store she wears a pair of cotton stockings because she finds a "run" in her old pair of silk ones. After the girls at the store make fun of her, Rosalie, in desperation, takes a pair of silk stockings from the stock, promising herself to make good for them pay day. In her confusion, leaving the store, she drops the hose, and is observed by Alberto Martino, the store detective, who does not detain her, but says he will see her later.

Roy Clarke Andrews, nephew of the store owner, notices Rosalie and chats with her daily. Rosalie has a boy friend, Neil McKinley, back home, but they quarreled when she left for the city.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

Aside from Roy Clarke's daily chats at her counter that were always funny and cheered her up, the next two weeks passed quite uneventfully for Rosalie.

She had grown used to Ann's wise cracks about everyone around her—and really liked the trowsy little blond.

Ann was unstinted in her praise of Rosalie's ability to catch on to the selling business. She won her completely one day when she told her without a trace of jealousy:

"You been outsellin' this old war horse every day this week. Angel Face. First thing you know I'll be workin' for you."

Martino passed Rosalie with a smile and a nod. Gradually her fear and shame began to pass, and she felt like holding her head up in the world again. It all seemed like a bad dream. Once when Martino passed and Ann saw him smile at Rosalie she made a face and shuddered.

"Ow! I'd as soon meet a plink lion with a handful of shotguns in the dark as that bird."

Rosalie looked at her in surprise. "But—why? Isn't he all right?"

"Right? If I'm a student of human anatomy that guy's mug is playin' leads in the rogues picture gallery right this minute."

There were times when a look on Martino's face, made her shudder, too. But she told she was doing him wrong and quickly tried to stifle her distrust. Hadn't he saved her from jail?

Mother Murphy knocked on Rosalie's door that evening and came in with a mischievously mysterious air.

"What color auto did ye say after that bye ye breakin' yer heart after back home was after sportin'?"

"A red one," Rosalie looked at her, perplexed. "Why?"

Mother stood with her arms out blocking the door and her eyes twinkling.

"And has he got yaller hair and a dumb little nose that turns up like he was after smellin' some 'out of ye' He's clutterin' up me front door with hisself and blockin' in traffic with that red car—"

By this time Rosalie was trembling with joy. When she tried to push mother from the door to rush down she was shoved back.

"Ye green wan it is, and he can wait. No back talk."

Before mother would let her through she made her pay toll with the quarter she had bet that she would never see him again.

A minute later she was a blur of joyful happiness in Neil's arms.

"Oh, honey, you aren't mad at me, then?" she clung to him joyfully.

"Naw," he kissed her. "I got awful ashamed of myself for being such a baby."

She sighed with content and sat back.

"Oh, it doesn't matter now. I'm so happy to see you I could die. It's—it's been awfully lonely."

"Gosh, I thought you would be back in a week," he grinned. "I didn't even believe you'd ever go. How's tricks?"

She babbled to him about the store and her new life for a little while. He was taking in the street and the surroundings with eyes that showed their distaste.

"Criminy, what a dump of a block to live in," he said then. "What are you doing in this part of Philadelphia?"

"I can't afford anything better,"

"Gosh, I thought you would be back in a week."

Rosalie spoke up, a little sharply. "Besides, Mother Murphy's boarding house is very respectable—and she's good to me."

He dropped the subject. "Had dinner?"

She told him she always ate at six.

"Then you'll have to go with me while I eat. I'm starved."

When he drove to one of the smartest restaurants in the city Rosalie felt a little panicky. Of course she wasn't going to eat and she wouldn't have to order. But, she had never been in a restaurant in her life.

The headwaiter said, "Good evening," and she stood nonplussed. She didn't even know whether she should go before Neil—or that she should even follow the man who spoke to them, to the table. Neil saw her uncertainty and pushed her a little ahead of him.

When they were seated he grinned his smart-aleck grin and shook his head, wisely:

"Rosalie, you sure got a lot to learn."

It hurt her so that she wanted to cry. But she wanted so much to be happy that she blinked the tears back and pretended she didn't care. He ordered ice cream for her and she ate it with fingers that trembled.

Neil asked for cracked ice and took out a large flask.

"I always bring my own ginger ale with me," he grinned again. "If I bought it here I'd feel just like you did the night of the dance."

The Heater

Dorothy Mackaill, who introduced talkies to the Bijou Theater Saturday night in the sound debut, "Hard To Get," is coming back to that theater Tuesday for a three day visit in "The Great Divide," a First National-Vitaphone picture.

The West presents a colorful background for this 100 per cent talking, singing and dancing picture, which was adapted from the popular stage play of the same name which enjoyed success over a period of years.

The picture is directed by Reginald Barker and Ian Keith plays opposite Miss Mackaill. Others in the supporting cast are: Lucien Littlefield, Ben Hendricks, Myrna Loy, Frank Tang, Creighton Hale, George Fawcett, Jean Laverty, Claude Gillingwater, Roy Stewart, James Ford, Jean Lorraine and Gordon Elliott.

Sound pictures, long considered before introduced to Xenia, have met with instant popular approval here. The Bijou Saturday night ran continuous shows from 6:30 to midnight, playing to more than 1,000 customers. After Sunday's shows, more than 2,000 patrons had seen and heard pictures at the Green St. house for the first time.

No date for the introduction of sound pictures to the Orpheum Theater, Main and Whiteman Sts., has been forthcoming, but it is expected to be soon. That theater has been wired for sound pictures and a number of the popular Warner Bros., all talking and singing films, have already been booked. When the Orpheum opens with sound Xenia will have gone completely talkie.

"Tea for Three", the Little Theater Guild opening vehicle for its second season is based on the eternal triangle for plot and enjoyed a long Broadway run.

Mrs. Esther Schick, whose capable direction brought success to the Guild's first season, is conducting the small cast necessary for this play, which will be presented Friday night. Miss Margaret Little, Fred Flynn and Marcus McCallister are playing the leading roles and are supported in minor parts by Miss Helen Spahr and Bob Ellis. The Guild is advising the public that membership tickets now being sold are good for all of the season's productions, and

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The United States supreme court has been called upon to decide whether a state can convict a man of violating prohibition laws on evidence obtained in a search of his house without search warrant in spite of the federal constitutional provision against unreasonable search and seizure.

The case comes to a high court from Iowa where the state supreme court sustained the conviction of A. C. Bamsey, a World War veteran in Creston.

In appealing to the high court, Bamsey contended that the Iowa court not only disregarded its own constitutional provision but has violated the Anglo-Saxon theory that "a man's home is his castle."

Entered By Police
Bamsey's apartment was entered by police officers, who alleged that they found some intoxicating liquor. He was convicted. No search warrant was obtained by the officers before they entered his home.

He vainly sought to suppress the evidence on the ground that the officers violated section 8 of the Iowa constitution, which is identical with the fourth of the federal constitution, providing:

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by an oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the person or things to be seized."

Bamsey's attorneys contend that the U. S. supreme court has already held in federal cases that evidence obtained through an illegal search and seizure cannot be used against an accused man. To permit the state of Iowa to use these prohibited methods in enforcing constitutional provision is to set aside the effect of the fourth amendment, he contends.

Iowa authorities hold that there was ample power in the state laws for the conviction.

Despite the fact that prohibition is a decade old, many other knotty cases on this subject are pending in the high court.

Government Appeals
The government in three cases is appealing from unfavorable lower court decisions where it was held that the treasury could not through regulations cancel permits for making or denatured alcohol an issue or refuse to issue new ones.

Several chemical companies, who had received permits for making alcohol and were subsequently told that they were revoked, attacked the authority exercised by the treasury prohibition officials.

In another unusual prohibition case, the government sought to confiscate an electrical plant placed on the property of the Elk Breeding and Grazing Association in Massachusetts by the Kohler Company. The government claimed that it was used in making liquor. The Kohler Company, which said there was still $162 due on the machine, contended that the government could not confiscate the property, and won in lower courts.

CHANGE PENSIONS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5. — The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has announced the discontinuance of the pension system for employees and the substitution of the annuity plan. Fifty thousand workers are affected by the change. The company will give earned rewards to employees who retire at the age of sixty-five.

Short Jacket Suit

The short jacket suit will be worn through the winter. These suits are practical worn under a long coat for everyday, or, in the more elaborate versions, for dress. This three-piece ensemble has a full pleated skirt, tuck-in blouse of claret satin with scarf to match, and is worn with a hat of Dutch felt.

JOHNSTON'S THRONE IS NOW WOBBLING

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 5.—The throne of Mayor Arthur R. Johnston, the only Negro mayor in Ohio, was said to be wobbling precariously as voters went to the polls in Miles Heights, near here today.

Johnston's place would be secure, Miles Heights politicians explain, but for his alleged failure to enforce an emergency ordinance against the sale or possession of fireworks last summer. They say further the Miles Heights political situation is the most tangled in Cuyahoga County today.

Four opposition candidates are in the running for Johnston's place. Mrs. Ruth O. Boltz, a candidate

Vicks Now Passes 26 Million Yearly!

More and More Millions Follow
Trend of Modern Medicine and
Treat Colds Externally

To keep pace with the ever-growing demand for Vicks VapoRub, the external treatment for colds, another increase is being made in the figure of the Vicks slogan, made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Only a short time ago, the well known "17 Million" was raised to "21 Million." Again this figure has been outgrown, as more and more people turn to this better way of treating colds. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a jar for every family in the United States.

A generation ago, when Vicks was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers especially have appreciated this modern vaporizing ointment, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs.

And so Vicks spread, until today it has become the family standby for colds—adults' as well as children's—in more than 60 countries.

BOSTON TEACHER IS POPULAR IN JAPAN

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Miss Catherine Crowell Perry, direct descendant of Commodore Perry, is taking Japan by storm, according to a report by Rev. Leland W. Mann, to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions here. Miss Perry, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Perry, of Boston, is a newly appointed missionary teacher under the Board of Commissioners in Kobe College, Kobe, Japan.

Following an address to the Pan-Pacific Club of Tokyo, exactly six weeks ago, she was surrounded by reporters around her home, according to the report of Rev. Mann, another new

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Hi Y Club held its regular meeting Monday night. There were seventeen members present. A regular business meeting was held and the constitution was drawn up. It was decided to hold the next meeting with the Washington C. H. Hi Y Club as guests and perform the induction ceremony.

The style of pin was also chosen for the club. An advisory committee was suggested and its members will be announced at a later date. After some discussion on the part of several members the meeting was adjourned.

The student council was called together by Mr. Woodruff Monday morning for the purpose of forming a Junior Community Chest Club. The plan suggested by Mr. Woodruff met with the approval of the club and an executive council is expected to be formed within a day or two. Another meeting is to be held Tuesday during the opening exercise period at

If You Are Slender—

Do your stockings "bag" at ankle or knee?

If You Are a Bit Heavier—

Are your stockings short or tight at ankle and top?

The New CUSTOM-TAILORED STOCKING

Now Fits All Types of Legs Perfectly

because it's made in special Slender, Medium and Full leg sizes with correctly proportioned length... Regular foot sizes.

A gloriously sheer all silk chiffon, fine gauge, picot edge stocking in the most popular shades.

$1.95 pr.

GORDON HOSIERY

You will find this hosiery a delight both in appearance and wearing qualities—either the chiffon or sheer service weight. And the new Gordon colors—not only the costume but the woman herself is considered. The Gordon narrow heel leaves almost the entire ankle clad in sheer silk—and yet gives the necessary reinforcements.

Chiffon and service weights

McCALLUM HOSIERY

It was a clever woman who said "Dress as though every day was the most important occasion in your life." Women who follow these wise words know how important accessories are. And above all others, are beautiful stockings. No wonder the smart world says "McCallum's." Chiffon and service weights.
